I'M AFTER THEM!

I'M AFTER THEM!

Look out for the sleek tongued varments that tell you the Advance is not the best machine in the market. Those that tell you falsehoods are not worthy of being called by any other name. The ADVANCE is guaranteed to do more and better work than any other machine in the market, and is the only machine on the Coast that has NEVER been replaced by other machines. Other dealers have offered new machines for an ADVANCE that has been run two years and have given parties to understand they would give differences, but were told that the ADVANCE, after two years' run was still much better than old fogy machines if they were new. And if the ADVANCE engine is not the best traction engine, why is it that I have sold TWELVE on the West Side, between Portland and Corvallis, this year?

STATE AND TERRITORY

The Puyallup Reservation and Tacoma's Prospects.

NOTES FROM THE STATE CAPITAL

Street Fight Between a Walla Walla Editor and an Ex-Councilman—Surveyors at Work on the Albany & Astoria Road.

TACOMA, W. T., July 11.—The opening of the Puyallup reservation to the whites on the entrance of Washington into the sisterhood of the states will be an enormous factor in the future growth of Tacoma. The citizens who were shown the article in reference thereto which appeared in THE OREGONIAN yesterday, are rejoiced to hear that this barrier to the progress of the city is about to be removed.

It is estimated by some of the most conservative people here that this action will of itself add at least 50,000 people to the city. It will permit of the entrance of competing transcontinental roads into the city. It will more than double the area of the flat lands suitable for manufacturing purposes and these will be even better situated than those on this side of the bay. The townsite on the other side of the bay lies better than that on this side, and there is good anchorage there, while the water is deep enough for vessels to tie up close to the wharves without building out too far. The sale of the Indians' land at the present values will give each male adult on the reservation at least $20,000.

The statements about the opening of the reservation have been confirmed by some of those who are best posted in the city, but who did not expect that it would leak out so soon.

FROM SALEM.

M. Shui Wan To Be Taken Back to San Francisco.

SALEM, Or., July 11.—C. C. Cox, a detective of San Francisco, was in the city to-day with a requisition from the governor of California for the arrest of M. Shui Wan, a Chinaman who was detained in Portland on a charge of defrauding Lung Wo & Co., warehousemen in San Francisco, by means of forged warehouse receipts. M. Shui Wan is an English speaking celestial and a smart one, and held a responsible position. Mr. Cox procured a warrant from Governor Pennoyer and took the afternoon train for Portland, expecting to take his man back with him.

Articles of incorporation were filed in the secretary of state's office to-day by the Salem Abstract & Loan Company; principal place of business, Salem; capital stock, $20,000; object, to write up and maintain abstract books, and deal in real estate; incorporators, Thomas Holman, W. H. H. Waters and L. C. Brown.

The Real Estate Exchange of Portland; capital stock, $1000; incorporators, M. G. Griffin, James Flower, J. C. McCaffrey, N. P. Hall and C. M. Stearns.

Billy Nicon, a boy 16 years old, who came here from ten miles below Portland three months ago, struck Bertie Olinger, aged 8, this evening with a small rock over the right eye, inflicting a severe but not a dangerous wound. Several boys were hauling the under part of a fire engine and Nicon was trying to boss the smaller boys. The little fellows threw gravel and small pebbles at him for a while until finally he picked up a rock and threw it with the above result. Nicon [illegible] in orphan. His mother was shot at The Dalles six years ago; a brother was drowned there, and his father died at Portland four years ago. He is not considered a bad boy, and the little lads are blamed as much as he.

The Massive Granite Columns for the Entrance Put in Place.

SPOKANE FALLS, July 11.—The massive granite columns for the entrance to the five-story bank building in process of erection at the corner of Howard and Sprague streets by Theodore Cushing, of Portland, were set in place yesterday. They are from the Dorset granite quarry near this city, and each of them weighed before cutting 19,000 pounds, while the pedestals supporting them weighed 1,000 pounds each.

Mr. Cushing has leased the entire first floor of his building to the Washington National Bank and Spokane Loan and Savings Bank. The basement will contain [illegible] safe deposit vaults.

VICTORIA NEWS ITEMS.

A Jockey Club Formed—The Proposed Short Line to the Mainland.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 11.—A number of the prominent citizens of Victoria have formed a jockey club and made arrangements for the taking over of the Victoria Driving park, and will put the track in first class order. They will fix up a first class ground for baseball, also cricket and lawn tennis grounds. It is expected that it will prove a great incentive to the improvement of horseflesh on the island.

A largely attended public meeting to-night passed resolutions favoring the proposed short line from the island to the mainland by means of a railway and railway ferry.

THE GRECO-ROMAN CHAMPIONSHIP.

The Jap Wins the Wrestling Match at Seattle and $500.

SEATTLE, July 11.—Matsada Sorakichi, the Jap, and Ernest Schumacher wrestled to-night for $500 a side and the Greco-Roman championship of the world. The Jap won the first and third falls and Schumacher the second. In the last fall the Jap strangled his opponent.

FROM TACOMA.

The Fire Department and the City Treasury—Local Notes.

TACOMA, July 11.—There will be a warm time at the next meeting of the city council when the question of the salaries to be paid the fire department comes up for discussion. The members of the fire department demand that the chief shall be paid $150 a month; the assistant chief, $130; engineers, $100; and drivers and pipemen [illegible]. Councilman John Horsfall, of the fire and water committee, says the city cannot afford to pay such a scale, as it has to pay a large amount of $10,000 for purchasing and $5,000 for repairing the existing buildings on the poor farm, $[illegible] for school buildings, $6,000 for fire purposes, besides additional maintenance. It has to build five miles of sewers out of the general fund, to put in a hundred additional electric lights at $111 a year each, 100 hydrants at $60 a year, including the cost of putting them in; to purchase 4000 or 5000 feet more hose, and to build a $60,000 city hall, and this has all to be done out of the funds during the current fiscal year. He says that the firemen want far too much, and that the city council will refuse to comply with the conditions of the firemen and allow them to carry out their threat of disbanding rather than do so, and will take steps to organize new fire companies if they do.

There is also trouble ahead over the request of the light and water company and two other corporations who are asking a vacation of fifty feet each of Winthrop avenue, and a large remonstrance will be presented against this course, as it is one of the most valuable streets of this city.

The news of the death of Hon. Edmund Rice, of St. Paul, ex-member of congress from Minnesota and father of Edmund, Stuart, William and Philip Rice, all of this city, was received to-day with sincere regret. Mr. Rice was well known here and his four sons are among the best citizens of Tacoma.

Mayor Wheelwright has extended an invitation to the Territorial Press Association to hold its forthcoming session in this city.

Dr. Case was held to-day by Justice [illegible] in $500 bail on the charge of outraging a deaf mute patient under his charge.

Killed by a Falling Stump.

SEATTLE, July 11.—Charles Nesmith, a laborer, was killed at Whatcom to-day by a stump falling on him while at work on street excavations.

FIRE AT FRESNO.

A Portion of Chinatown Destroyed—One Fatality—Number of Persons Injured.

FRESNO, Cal., July 11.—A fire broke out in Chinatown early this morning and destroyed fourteen houses.

The loss is estimated above $20,000. There was very little insurance.

A Chinese infant was burned to death and a number of persons were severely injured by jumping from windows.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

FRESNO, Cal., July 11.—Incendiaries this morning about 1:30 o'clock set fire to a large two-story frame building in Chinatown by placing a can of gasoline or other explosive on the only stairway of the building. The upper floor was occupied as a house of ill fame. The four women had to jump from the windows in their night clothes to save their lives. All were more or less injured.

The fire spread until nearly one third of Chinatown was destroyed. The loss in all is about $30,000, with but little insurance. The intention evidently was to burn the women alive. Their Chinese cook saved them by giving an alarm in time. In jumping from a window he broke his right leg in two places. Several other Chinamen in different parts of town were injured.

The insurance companies canceled all risks in Chinatown a day or two since, and hence the loss is heavy.

THE ACADEMY OF SCIENCE.

The Corner-Stone of This Monument to Lick To Be Laid To-Day.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—The ceremony of laying the corner stone of the academy of science, a bequest of the late James Lick, will take place to-morrow. Colonel C. F. Crocker will act as president of the day, and Irving M. Scott will deliver an address on "Progress of Science." Among the articles which will be placed in the corner stone is a photograph of James Lick. The building will cost about $160,000, is seven stories high and fronts on Market street between Fourth and Fifth streets.

DESERVING OF SMALL SYMPATHY.

The San Francisco "Chronicle's" Opinion of the Zimmerman Bunko.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—The Chronicle, commenting on the bunko game played on Jacob Zimmerman, says: "The old countryman at Portland, Or., who was cheated out of $2800 by the common devices of bunko men deserves small sympathy. This mossgrown swindle has been exposed so often in the newspapers that any one who can read ought to be familiar with its features. But there is a large class that never gains any experience without paying heavy fees for it, and bunko victims belong to this class."

A GOOD FISH STORY.

Trout Jumped From a Well at a Depth of Sixty Feet.

FRESNO, July 11.—Well borers on the ranch of M. A. Freitas, nine miles west of this city, pumped up a bucketful of young trout, each one an inch in length, from a depth of sixty feet. The fish had a good time swimming around in a pan full of water. It is believed the workmen tapped an underground stream from the foothills.

STILL TALKING AWAY.

A Long Debate Over the Size of the Legislature,

WHICH ENDS WHERE IT BEGAN

Another Large Budget of Propositions for the Constitution—How Will the Corporations Fare? Advice Is Common.

OLYMPIA, W. T., July 11.—The convention met at 10 with the president in the chair.

Prayer by Chaplain Thompson.

Roll call showed all present except Clothier and Fay. Mr. Sullivan, of Whitman, explained that Mr. Fay had received a telegram of sickness in his family and had left immediately, asking him to request leave of absence. The request was granted indefinitely.

Mr. Dunbar said that the committee on state, school and granted lands was the largest committee of the convention and would require the services of a clerk. He asked authority to employ one, and it was granted.

The record of Wednesday was read and approved after correction of sundry errors.

The president announced the appointment of Stiles of Tacoma and Browne of Spokane Falls, as additional members of the committee on state, school and granted land.

The committee on mileage requested the members to hand in the details necessary for compiling the mileage account and promised checks for mileage as soon as the account was made out.

Mr. Dyer, by unanimous consent, introduced a resolution prohibiting the introduction of propositions for the constitution save in the form of completed articles or sections of articles.

Mr. Browne moved to amend by striking out the words "sections of articles," so that only complete articles could be offered.

Mr. Dyer hoped that the gentleman would withdraw his amendment, because members might wish to put in sections which would be desirable when they could not be required to compile a whole article.

Mr. Browne declined to withdraw his amendment, saying that from yesterday's proceedings it was obvious that we could sit here a month or six weeks or more, doing nothing but putting in propositions. If single sections and clauses are to be allowed the committees will have a great mass of loose matter and be greatly overburdened. If any member has an idea for the constitution let him draw an article to cover that whole subject, so that the committee can have it before them in shape to consider. Then when the committee reports any amendments can be made that are desired.

Mr. Reed raised the point of order that under rule 50 any resolution giving rise to debate should lie over one day.

The chair—Being taken up by unanimous consent takes it out of the rule.

Turner—The whole resolution is in the nature of an amendment of the rules, creating substantially a new rule, and must therefore lie over one day.

Mr. Browne thought not; that if adopted the resolution was only a suggestion to the members and not binding on them like a rule.

The chair decided Judge Turner's point well taken, and ruled the resolution out of order.

Mr. Henry presented a memorial from Yelm (as an offset to the other one from Yelm in favor of woman suffrage) against woman suffrage, signed by J. C. Conner and others; referred to the committee on elections.

Mr. Waltman presented a petition of F. M. Hall and others for constitutional prohibition, also an affidavit of E. B. Sutton that he had similar petitions on hand ready for presentation to the convention, containing not less than 30,000 names of residents of the territory, all of which were burned in the Seattle fire; both papers were referred to the committee on miscellaneous subjects.

The president called Mr. Warner to the chair.

On motion of Sullivan, of Tacoma, the committee on elections was authorized to employ Miss Lilly Brown as clerk.

THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Mr. J. Z. Moore, from the committee on legislative department, reported a draft of a portion of an article for the constitution, providing that the legislative authority shall be in the senate and house of representatives, to be called the legislative assembly of the state of Washington; that the house shall consist of not less than sixty-four members nor more than 100, and the senate of not less than thirty-two nor more than fifty, provided that the senate shall always be one-half in numbers of the house; and the first assembly consist of thirty-five senators and seventy representatives.

Mr. Moore said this was only a partial report, for the purpose of establishing the numbers, so that the committee on apportionment could go on with its work, and that the figures had been settled upon by consultation with that committee.

Mr. Henry—I move to refer to the committee on legislative department.

Mr. Moore—That is the committee which has just reported it.

Mr. Henry—I understand that, and will explain, if I can get a second.

Several voices seconded his motion.

Mr. Henry then objected to doing this work by piecemeal, or until the legislative committee should report a completed article that could be considered intelligently. Hence he wanted the matter to go back to the committee.

Mr. Buchanan said they found it necessary to establish the numbers in the first place, as not to [illegible] the committee on apportionment [illegible] report.

Mr. Dyer [illegible] the [illegible] of this position, and favor of the [illegible].

Mr. Cowley, chairman of the apportionment committee [illegible] statements as to the [illegible] work of his committee, but was [illegible] whether under the rules the matter [illegible] acted on.

Mr. Stiles called attention to rule 2, requiring [illegible] laid on the table, printing, and moved that this report take that course.

Mr. J. M. Reed raised the point of order that the rule requiring a second reading by title had not been complied with.

The chair decided the point well taken.

Mr. Sullivan asked which rule that was, but the chair decided that it must be read a second time.

Mr. Henry withdrew his motion.

Mr. J. C. Moore offered as a substitute for the committee report a resolution merely declaring that the first house shall consist of seventy members and the first senate of thirty-five. By the passage of this resolution [illegible] the committee [illegible] would be taken and that would be sufficient.

Mr. [illegible] thought the report of the committee [illegible] course and be referred and [illegible] given notice that he should [illegible] under the rule would arrest it [illegible].

[illegible] one day.

Mr. Dunbar said the rule required delay and [illegible] only when not otherwise provided. He moved to otherwise provide by putting the resolution on its passage.

Mr. Griffits insisted on his point of order and was ruled out of order.

Mr. Stiles said he did not want to act on any point of this constitution unless he could see it in print and fairly consider it.

Mr. Griffits said he was in the same position.

Mr. Dunbar said that if any member could not understand and remember so simple a matter without seeing it in print, why then print it, but he did not believe it necessary.

Mr. Lindsley said this was simply a resolution, not a section or article of the constitution.

Mr. Griffits thought the whole debate out of order [illegible] the rules and it must be read a second time by its title and referred and it then must be referred must be printed and laid on the members' desks.

[illegible] point was not well taken. This was a report of a committee and did not [illegible].

Mr. [illegible] the question under debate was [illegible] to substitute a resolution for the report.

Mr. [illegible] moved that the convention go into committee of the whole to discuss the subject [illegible].

Mr. Griffits claimed that a two-thirds vote was necessary, but the chair differed with him, and declared the motion carried and called Mr. Lindsley to the chair.

Mr. Griffits—What are we in committee of the whole for?

The chair—To consider the partial report of the committee on legislative department.

The report was read.

Mr. Dyer asked that the report be taken up by separate paragraphs.

Mr. Stiles said the second paragraph was all that was important just now and moved to take that up first. So voted.

Mr. Comegys moved to amend by making the figures—house not less than 60, senate not less than 30.

Mr. Griffits gave notice of a desire to debate and claimed that this notice under the rules carried the matter over to to-morrow.

[illegible] chair [illegible] these rules were to [illegible] the committee of the whole.

Mr. Sharstein offered as a substitute for the committee's report providing for the constitution of a legislature [illegible] its members its powers [illegible] of senators eighteen and representatives fifty [illegible] for increase in the future, but not to be more than senators thirty-three, [illegible] the same ratio of the [illegible] should always be maintained. Also provisions for districting the state into election and senatorial districts.

Mr. Warner, referring to the last decision of the chair, claimed that the rules were to be observed in committee of the whole "so far as applicable"

The chair ruled that in this case they were not applicable.

Mr. Dunbar inquired if there was any question or motion before the committee.

The chair—Yes, the motion of Mr Comegys

Mr Dyer quoted rule 37 to sustain his point of order, that the introduction of Mr Suksdorf's substitute was out of order

The chair sustained the point and ruled Mr Suksdorf's proposed substitute out

Mr Turner—I move to amend by providing that the senate shall consist of not less than thirty three nor—

Mr Sullivan of Whitman—I call the gentleman to order An amendment is already before the committee

Mr Turner—This is an amendment to that amendment, which I have a right to move (then proceeding)—nor more than 59, and the house not less than 69 nor more than 150 and that the legislature shall consist of, senate 33 and house 99, and so remain until otherwise ordered

In support of his motion, Judge Turner said that experience had shown that very small legislative bodies were more open to corrupt influences than large ones when corporate influences or other influences prejudicial to the people's interests sought to obtain legislative control, and as to the expense that was but a small item As to the larger maximum numbers stated, the state was to grow so great populous and wealthy that this larger number will soon become necessary

Mr J Z Moore said the legislative committee had recommended a senate of not less than thirty two and a house of not less than sixty four Their idea was to establish a ratio of one to two, for this greatly facilitated apportionment and he preferred that ratio to the one proposed by Mr Turner viz one to three Several new states had come into the Union with small legislatures and seemed to thrive with the lesser number We are informed that the state is to have a smaller judiciary force than the bar had contemplated, on the score of economy and yet the chairman of the judiciary committee proposes to burden the state with an extra expense of about $144 per day, to say nothing of the mileage and contingent expenses, which will probably run the expense to at least $350 per day As to the corrupt manipulation of legislative bodies he recalled some scandals in the United States house of representatives, notably the Credit Mobilier, which had been manipulated when the house had about [illegible] members In a council of twelve members there is a weight of responsibility which is more easily dodged or excused in a body of 100.

Mr Comegys said his own preferences would have been for a senate of twenty five and a house of fifty, but he had made the figures thirty and sixty in hope of amendment as a sort of compromise, which is more than treble the number of the present legislature He purposely omitted to fix any maximum number He believed ninety men were fully enough to manage the legislative affairs of the state that larger bodies were slow in handling public business that there was very little difference in the matter of manipulation and that on the score of economy the smaller number was preferable, as it would save the state about $400 or $500 per day He therefore opposed Judge Turner's amendment

Mr Kinnear expressed similar views, and thought it unnecessary to make the house three times as large as the senate. If corporations desire to influence legislation, they invariably attacked the smaller branch and so nothing was gained by making the house three times as large He approved making of the house twice the size of the senate and leaving the maximum unfixed

Mr Warner coincided with Judge Turner as to the size of the legislature As a new state there would be many important subjects to deal with, and the legislature should be large But he opposed the ratio of 3 to 1 and would have the two branches near an equality in the matter of numbers Corruption always seeks the smaller number anyhow

Mr Browne agreed that the legislature should be large but thought the senate should be a little larger and the house a little smaller than the figures named He thought the convention might agree upon some number that will still leave that matter open for future discussion He favored the figures 33 and 99 as being multiples of each other, and of three also and thus more convenient in settling matters of apportionment and referred to the importance of this matter when the question of minority representation came to be considered, as it must be before the work of the convention is done

Mr Gowey believed in the idea that small bodies were more easily manipulated but said wisdom would not die with this convention and that future amendments could be made to fit future circumstances He favored fixing minimum and maximum numbers, and leaving the apportionment to decide the rest, and made a motion to that effect in the nature of a substitute

Judge Turner raised a point of order that this could not be done There was already pending an amendment to an amendment which was as far as the matter of amendments could go

Several voices were heard saying that this was a substitute and not an amendment but Judge Turner claimed that it all came to the same thing

Judge Hoyt said that calling an amendment a substitute did not alter it any that it was an amendment just the same, and clearly out of order

The chair on such high authority I cheerfully rule it out of order

Mr Cosgrove favored seventy as the figure for the house, as it would give each county one representative and have 36 others to be appointed on the basis of inhabitants The counties would then avoid being districted together a course that had always proven most unsatisfactory New counties that may be established would not have a representative until they had inhabitants enough. He thought the plan of having two out of three from one party was a most fruitful source of trouble, and disapproved of it His idea was that seventy was the right number to commence with, and in ten years would not be enough, for the state of Washington would not be exceeded by any Eastern state in power of members, wealth or anything else

Mr Dunbar said the corporations could obstruct in small bodies, but that would not help them to get through pernicious legislation Washington territory will have a greater diversity of interests than perhaps any other state in the Union and all these multiform ramifications of interest should be represented. Again, a small legislature that could be controlled by reason of the fewness of its members might cost the state millions upon millions, by comparison with which the $15,000 or $20,000 per year for a larger legislature became insignificant. He approved of Judge Turner's figures.

Mr Buchanan discovered that there was a great diversity of opinion on this subject but he hoped some number would be fixed that would not be overturned

At this stage Mr Miner raised a point of order that the report of the legislative committee never had been before the convention, because the rule required all such reports to be signed by the members of the committee, and no such names had been read

The Chair—The convention dispensed with the reading

Mr Kinnear moved that the committee rise

The vote, as declared by the reading clerk who had done the counting was Ayes 32, noes 26 but the chair received the reverse impression, and declared the motion lost.

Mr Stiles took the floor and while he was speaking there was a buzz of excitement around the chairman's desk over the last decision The reading clerk called the chairman's attention to the error, but one or two gentlemen in the chairman's vicinity were sure they understood as the chairman had, viz, ayes 26, noes 32 But the clerk who had counted and the clerk who was keeping the minutes, and the generality of the newspaper men, had it the other way and meanwhile several voices exclaimed, 'Let it go,' and no other decision was made

Mr Stiles thought valuable time was being lost in useless debate He thought the ratio of one to two was the correct one, and that a senate of thirty five and a house of seventy was the right figure As coming from one of the larger counties, he saw no reason from the brief attention he had thus far been able to give the subject to object to those figures, and was willing to leave the matter in the hands of the committee.

McElroy favored a senate of thirty three and house of seventy three.

Mr Griffitts thought such precipitate action was bad and he was not prepared to vote either on the report or the amendments He thought he favored Judge Turner's proposition more than either of the others

Mr McElroy moved that the committee rise

Mr Dickey called for the previous question

Mr Dyer moved to lay the whole matter on the table which was negatived

Mr Griffitts moved that the committee rise

The vote stood ayes 38 and the chairman decided the motion carried saying there was no need to call for the noes, as 38 was a majority of the convention

The committee then rose, and Mr Warner resumed the chair

Mr Dunbar suggested that the chairman of the committee of the whole report in unity the results of the committee's session. [Laughter]

Mr Lindsley said that was the duty of the clerk.

The chairman called on the clerk

Major Burton said that the result was that nothing had been done in committee of the whole regarding sections 1 and 2. [Laughter]

The Chair—The regular order will be resumed.

Mr Shoudy submitted a request from the committee on engrossment, asking authority to employ a clerk

Mr Gowey—I raise the point of order that when we went into committee of the whole we were considering a report of a committee

The Chair—The point is well taken

Mr Suksdorf—I move that it go back to the same committee

Mr Stiles—I move to amend by ordering it to be printed

Mr Buchanan—What are we to do? Shall we print this report or shall we take advantage of all these views so lucidly explained [laughter] and bring in a report more in seeming consonance.

The chair—I rule the whole report out of order for not being signed [laughter]

Mr Shoudy then went on with his request, naming J D Hannagan as the clerk they wished to employ

Mr Stiles—I raise the point of order that the report (Mr Shoudy's) is not signed

The Chair—It is signed by the chairman and secretary.

Mr. Sullivan, of Whitman—What has become of the resolution? (Mr Moore's substitute)

The Chair—It went with the report that was ruled out of order.

Mr. Shoudy's request was granted

PROPOSITIONS FOR THE CONSTITUTION

The following propositions for the constitution were submitted

Mr Henry gave notice of his intention to move to amend the rules by adding a rule providing that the proceedings of the standing committees shall not be made public except by the reports of the committees.

Mr Dyer gave the same notice as to his resolution regarding the introduction of propositions

Mr Gowey moved to adjourn, but withdrew the motion

Mr J Z Moore gave notice of a motion to amend the rules and provide that the hour of meeting shall be 9 A M instead of 1 30 P M

Mr Buchanan said the members ought to know that an excellent lunch could be procured near the state house A colored lady had been induced to start in the business, and he declared he had got the best layout there to-day that he had seen since he came to town, so he thought that the rule might well be changed, and the members save themselves the long walk in the hot sun at noon

Mr Sullivan, of Tacoma, moved that the sergeant at arms be authorized to hire a janitor to assist in the care of the building, but after a considerable debate the authority was refused

Mr Sullivan, of Tacoma also gave notice of his intention to move to amend rule 7, so that the committees could report at their convenience

Mr Sullivan, of Whitman, gave notice of his intention to move to strike out rule 7 and rule 36 altogether

Mr McReavy suggested that the committee clerks be sworn, but the suggestion was disregarded

On motion of Mr Dyer, adjourned to 1 30 Friday

THE DAY'S WORK REVIEWED.

Nearly Every Member is Taking a Crack at the Corporations

OLYMPIA, July 11—The convention listened to more chin music to-day than it has yet heard during the session, and another flood of propositions were launched into the hands of the committees. It is evident from the tenor of many of them that corporations are to be hedged around with plenty of law Among other things a railroad commission is to be provided for, to take the railroads of the new state under their protecting wing This reminds me that no railroad lobby has yet appeared on the scene. A gentleman well versed in the affairs of the Northern Pacific and the O R & N Co said to-day "The hostile legislation proposed if enacted, may hurt these two companies a little, but it will help them in the long run, as it will prevent other railroads from being built" Whether the proposed legislation, when talked over, prepared and offered to the convention by the committee on corporations will be hostile or not, remains to be seen From what I have observed and heard thus far among the majority of the members, it is evident that the railway corporations will be treated fairly and that capital will not be driven from the new state by the enactment of laws that have wrought disaster elsewhere.

The school lands will doubtless be sold, and it is safe to say that the majority of the members are in favor of asserting the sovereignty of the state in the tide flats, or, in other words, they will not be sold to corporations or individuals, but the titles will forever remain in the state.

THE LEGISLATURE.

How many members shall the senate and house of representatives consist of bothered the convention to-day considerably Judge Turner's proposition, in the nature of an amendment to make a large lower house of ninety nine members, and a senate of thirty three members, set the members to thinking, and after a long debate the question which had been brought before the body by the committee on that subject, for a smaller number went over until to-morrow. This matter it is claimed, must be settled at once in order that the committee on apportionment can get to work. There is quite a diversity of opinion among the members relative to the matter.

ADVICE IS COMMON

Members of the convention are receiving all sorts of suggestions from all parts of the country William Potts, secretary of the Civil Service Reform Association, of which George William Curtis is president, has sent a letter to ex Governor Semple, asking for a list of members of the convention, and inclosing a printed article suggesting a constitutional provision concerning appointments to the civil service, as follows. "The legislature shall make a provision in conformity with this constitution for ascertaining the qualifications of those desiring places or employment in the public service, but shall not establish any religious or political test for office or public employment" It is not supposed that the provision will be adopted.

NOTES.

A number of additional clerks were appointed to-day to some of the committees, upon which the work has been piling up.

A large number of visitors came in by boat and train to-day. The Fleetwood brought among others Captain W B Gray, of Pasco, Editor Muncy of the Pasco Headlight, John L Wilson and family, of Spokane Falls, and Colonel L S Howlett, of North Yakima. The hotels and boarding houses are all full, as the teachers convention has brought quite a number of people here.

The admirable draft of a state constitution by W Lair Hill which appeared in THE OREGONIAN of the 4th inst., has been the theme of many of the members who look upon it in the main as just such a constitution as is needed for the new state. THE OREGONIAN of that date has been largely in demand by the members ever since its issue. C M B

THE SIOUX FALLS CONVENTION

A Memorial in Relation to Mineral Lands To Be Sent to the President.

SIOUX FALLS Dak, July 11—In the constitutional convention it was proposed to memorialize the president to suspend mineral entries upon school lands near the large cities until the state is organized and can defend its rights therein in cases of fraud

There was strong opposition on the ground that the ordinary operation of the law was sufficient to prevent such fraud and that to ask the president to suspend an entire class of entries was equivalent to petitioning him to do the same thing which resulted in such a bitter denunciation of Cleveland's land commissioner Sparks

Despite these considerations, however, the memorial was adopted by a vote of 32 to [illegible]

All opposition to the reference of every part of the constitution of 1885 to the appropriate committees was withdrawn, notwithstanding the strong opposition of the day previous

A petition was received from the Methodist Ministers Association of Southeastern Dakota, asking the convention to provide safeguards for honest elections in the constitution, and also that the vote on state officers and the temporary location of the state capital be taken at different times than that of the constitution.

THE G. A. R. REUNION

The Threatened Railroad Boycott Put in Operation.

COMRADES SHOULD STAY AT HOME

Unless Called to the Encampment by Business—The Milwaukee Veterans in an Embarrassing Position

CHICAGO July 11 The celebrated G A R circular against the railroads was formulated to-day, and will be officially promulgated to-morrow It states that after a long continued effort on the part of a large number of department commanders of the Grand Army of the Republic, supplemented by earnest appeals to the railroad officials the G A R has failed to secure to the old soldiers the customary rate of 1 cent per mile to the national encampment.

The circular recites the fact that 1 cent per mile or less has recently been granted to other organizations and states that the refusal of the railroads to give this rate to the veterans of the late war is an unjust discrimination against the G A R and that concurrently the department commanders of the various states request all of the comrades as a matter of self respect and self defense and love for the order, to forego the anticipated pleasure of meeting their comrades at the national encampment, by remaining at home only those attending who were duly elected delegates or ex officio members of the encampment.

The circular adds "Let us, in a dignified and resolute manner resent this great injustice sought to be meted out to the old soldiers by the railroad managers

The circular concludes by recommending the organization of county and district reunions throughout the various departments In order that every old soldier may be given an opportunity to meet his comrades around the camp fire in gladsome reunion

MEETING OF THE LOCAL COUNCIL

NEW YORK July 11—The Giants defeated the Clevelands to-day They had the game in hand after the first inning Cleveland's only run was made through errors by Richardson and Whitney Cleveland played well enough in the field. DOES GOULD OWN THE POSTAL?

Wall Street Agitated by a Rumor to That Effect.

NEW YORK July 11—Wall street has been considerably agitated during the past few days over a report that the Western Union Telegraph Company had gobbled up its smaller but energetic rival the Postal and that business men will be startled in the near future by the announcement of a decided advance in telegraph rates It is said that at the time of his embarrassment Mackay really sold the Postal lines to Jay Gould, and that the announcement has been kept quiet In order to make the public believe that it was enjoying the benefit of an opposition company

Minor officials of the company assert that Mackay had not sold out

"We have an amicable arrangement with the Postal by which a mutual saving of expenses is had," said George Gould to a reporter "That is, where there are two offices in a small town, neither of which paid expenses, we closed one We are also charging the same rates to leading competing points, but there has been no combination of the two companies."

"Did Jay Gould advance Mackay a large sum of money some time ago?"

"Oh, I know nothing about that," replied the son.

TO CHECK THE ALTON.

Action of the Interstate Commerce Railway Association.

CHICAGO July 11—At the session of the Interstate Commerce Railway Association held to-day, it was decided to allow all rail routes between the West and seaboard to meet any rates made by the lake and rail routes.

In consequence of the action of the Chicago & Alton in withdrawing from the association, the presidents of the other Kansas City lines were constituted a committee to take such joint action as they may agree upon at any time for protecting their interests against competition of the Alton. The association then adjourned, subject to call of the chairman

The committee appointed to confer with Vice-President Harris of the Burlington & Northern, reported a resolution, which was adopted, requesting the lines interested in St. Paul and Minneapolis traffic to at once open negotiations through the Northwestern division of the Western freight association with their Eastern connections, with a view to making such joint tariffs and rates between all points reached by the Canadian and lake routes as shall meet any and all rates made by said Canadian and lake routes

ADVICES FROM HAYTI.

Legitime Said to Hold a Strongly Fortified Position.

NEW YORK, July 11—A letter from Port au Prince says Legitime is arming women and placing them in the ranks. He is resorting to everything possible to strengthen his position, which is far stronger than is currently reported Every peak and prominent position about the city is found fortified and although Quaker guns are mounted on not a few of the earthworks the whole system of defense renders Legitime's position a strong one.

Yellow fever is prevailing in the city, although not to an alarming extent.

The women serving in the ranks of Legitime dress in male attire and appear to endure the hardships well They are said to be all young girls and many of them are the mistresses of the soldiers

Fortified as Legitime is, he is too strong to be taken by Hyppolite, while Legitime, it appears, does not dare to come out and risk a battle.

A BIG MONOPOLY SCHEME.

The Railroads in the Interstate Association Planning to Form a Trust.

NEW YORK, July 11—Dow, Jones & Co's Financial News Circular says to-day A scheme is well under way for the formation of the thirty five railroads in the Interstate Railroad Association into a trust. These roads have 100,000 miles of track and $1,000,000,000 of capital stock.

The scheme is, says the circular, for the trust to take stock of the roads at the market price, issue certificates and have a central board of control Already, the controlling influences in four great roads the St. Paul, Rock Island, Northwestern and Atchison, each of which represents a system of roads, are committed to the scheme

The men who are pushing the scheme are heavy capitalists, the Peabodys Vanderbilts, General Horace Porter, Philip D Armour, Alexander Forbes, Alexander Geddes and Roswell P. Flower

JOHN L. DRAGGED TO JAIL

After an Exciting Struggle With the Nashville Police.

HE SOON REGAINED HIS LIBERTY

Kilrain in Danger of Similar Treatment—A Reward of $500 Offered for His Arrest—Their Movements.

NASHVILLE, July 11.—When the Louisville & Nashville train pulled into this city this morning, a crowd surged around the car to see John L. Sullivan. A rumor soon obtained circulation that a requisition was in the hands of the police, several of whom had boarded the car. There was some discussion and finally a struggle was seen in the car and an officer reached over with handcuffs and seizing the slugger's arms, pulled him out into the aisle. Sullivan resisted and Muldoon put his head out of the window and cried to the crowd: "Gentlemen, I demand American protection!" His patriotic wail was greeted with a variety of responses. Sullivan begged him to "knock the copper out," and others cried "Hurrah for the Nashville police!" "Hit him with your club," etc.

After a brief struggle Sullivan was taken from the car to a carriage. In the scuffle he drew back to knock down a policeman, when Chief Black stuck a pistol in his face and told him if he struck he (Black) would kill him. The officers next grabbed Charles Johnson, of Brooklyn, Sullivan's backer, who resisted vigorously, but finally cried out with pain. During all this scrimmage, Muldoon sat quietly by and was undisturbed. Cleary, Sullivan's other second, hid in the excitement, and Lynch jumped off the train. Only Johnson and Sullivan were detained, though the others were wanted.

The arrests were made by the authority of a telegram from Governor Lowry, of Mississippi, to the Nashville chief of police.

Sullivan has retained ex-Attorney General Washington, who says the officers went beyond their authority and cannot hold the men. Immediately an attempt will be made to get the parties out on a writ of habeas corpus. Governor Lowry's telegram offers a reward of $1000. It is believed that if released, Sullivan will be rearrested to secure time for a requisition to be obtained. The arrested belligerants are now in the police station in conference with their attorney.

THE PENALTY.

JACKSON, Miss., July 11.—The law imposes a penalty not exceeding $1000 nor less than $500 and imprisonment for twelve months, or both, for prize fighting. The party causing death is guilty of murder. Aiders and abettors are subject to a fine of not less than $1000 or imprisonment in jail for six months, or both.

KILRAIN WANTED TOO.

COLUMBUS, O., July 11.—Governor Foraker received the following telegram to-day:

JACKSON, Miss., July 11.—Please direct the chief of police of Cincinnati to arrest Jake Kilrain, Charley Mitchell and Pony Moore. Hold them until a requisition reaches you. The charge is the crime of prize fighting in this state.
ROBERT LOWRY, Governor.

In reply Governor Foraker repeated the telegram to the chief of police of Cincinnati and asked that official to act in accordance with Governor Lowry's request. Foraker also sent a telegram to Governor Lowry saying: "Your request has been complied with."

AGAIN AT LIBERTY.

At 8 o'clock Judge McAllister of the circuit court heard the arguments in Sullivan's petition for a writ of habeas corpus. In rendering his decision the judge was very emphatic in his declaration that to hold Sullivan longer would be a most arbitrary act on the part of the court, that the officers had arrested him without a warrant or the authority of the law, and that the misdemeanor was not extraditable by the laws of the Tennessee courts and by the precedents of Governor Tyler. He therefore ordered Sullivan released.

There was an immense crowd present and the decision of the judge was greeted with great applause. Sullivan and Johnson went East by way of the Louisville & Nashville to-night.

SOME OF THE PARTY IN CINCINNATI.

CINCINNATI, July 11.—Several of John L. Sullivan's party arrived here to-night and continued their journey eastward. The police are watching all the depots for the arrival of Sullivan. They will arrest him on sight.

KILRAIN INTERVIEWED.

He Says Sullivan Whipped Him Fairly, but Wants Another Go.

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—Kilrain and party arrived here this morning. Kilrain looks badly, but he is as far from the grave as before the fight, in so far as the injuries received in the battle are concerned. His face is badly bruised, both eyes blackened, lip cut, but not severely, and his jaws give evidence of some of the taps thereon from the brawny fist of Sullivan. Kilrain walks without assistance but is far from frisky. He is also badly frightened and fears Governor Lowry more than he did John L. He still looks to Mitchell and others for orders, like a child.

Mitchell opened a conversation with the statement that the fight was lost because Jake wasn't in shape. "He knew he was sick, and I asked him if he did not feel badly, and he deceived me by saying no. Now, didn't you, Jake?"

"I felt well enough to do him," growled the fallen idol.

"The whole story in a nutshell," continued Mitchell, "can be quickly told. Jake had no time to get fixed and the sun knocked him out. The battle was fair and square, and we have no complaints to make."

"But did not Sullivan assist the sun in knocking out Kilrain?" some one said to Mitchell.

"Yes, Sullivan did get in some damaging punches in the third, and I believe, the seventh round."

"But it's a bloody shame to talk about dosing," continued Mitchell, "and about my leaving Jake because he was defeated. Jake will tell you that he wasn't drugged, and as for my leaving him, why I was looking out that we were not nabbed by the 'bobbies' in Mississippi and stood on the front platform to prevent the uncoupling of the train. Bud Masterson, of Denver, who is charged with twenty-two lives, stood by me and promised to shoot the first who touched a coupling pin, and by the courtesy of the Associated Press we finally got into New Orleans on their special train. It was a forced courtesy I know, but we couldn't help it. We had to get out of Mississippi and quick, too."

"People would prefer your statement as to the fight, Jake," suggested the Associated Press reporter.

"Well, he whipped me," replied Jake, "and he did it fairly. I was not in condition. The truth is I had but two weeks training. The heat assisted, but I was not drugged. I don't blame anybody and acknowledge my defeat. I was overconfident, perhaps, but still think I can whip Sullivan, and shall try for another go at him."

This statement was made in a disheartened way, however, and it was clearly evident that Kilrain was not over anxious for another battle. "I feel badly about losing the fight," said Kilrain, "but I am not suffering very much physically. It meant fortune to me if I won. I need not have fought again, but now I must."

Mitchell says he will challenge Sullivan for another battle and Pony Moore stands ready to back his son-in-law for any amount.

KILRAIN IN DANGER OF ARREST.

Governor Lowry, of Mississippi, Offers a Reward of $500

COLUMBUS, Ind., July 11.—Kilrain and party arrived here this afternoon. Reporters boarded the train, but Kilrain refused to talk.

"Damn newspapers," said he, "they have ruined me already."

The party proceeded to a hotel and Kilrain stripped to his waist to wash. His body appeared badly swollen, and was covered with plasters. The big spot on the right side was blood red and bloated.

Consternation was created by the rumors of Sullivan's arrest at Nashville, and Kilrain and party, in order to avoid arrest, hired carriages and drove overland in the direction of Shelbyville, thirty miles distant.

The sheriff of this county to-night received a telegram from Governor Lowry, of Mississippi, offering $500 reward for the arrest of Kilrain and his party.

The sheriff has organized a posse and gone on the trail of the pugilists. The party have one hour the start.

ITALIAN EMIGRANTS.

How They Have Settled in the Argentine Republic.

National Review.

The Argentine Republic and Uruguay, which have hitherto been regarded as purely pastoral countries, are undergoing an agricultural development which is marvelous. But the other day the present writer, while in South America, saw steamship after steamship arrive in rapid succession with every available inch of space crowded with Italian emigrants for the River Platte. The lines engaged in the traffic are working at high pressure. The voyage involves no change of climate to the Italian contadini, no elaborate preparation for the voyage is very short, the ships drop out of the Mediterranean almost at once, fall into the north east trades and run down the distance in a bee line to the embouchure of the Platte and immediately return for a fresh cargo of the same order.

The Italian peasant, strong, frugal and from the purity of the climate acclimatized in advance, makes the best emigrant, and the government expends with liberal hand the means necessary to their reception and the work of rapidly settling them on the land. Soil and climate over a region as large as Europe are pre-eminently adapted for agriculture and the culture of cereals, there is no weary time of clearing the land, the expense of reclaiming the prairie is a mere trifle. English capital engaged in railway construction is developing the provinces in every direction, a line now stretches right across the vast pampas to Mendoza and the Andes as far as Chile on the Pacific side. The unrivaled waterways navigable for thousands of miles in the interior, with tributaries themselves great rivers, give these regions an immense advantage over other countries. The three Platine republics cover 1,400,000 square miles and their outputs of all kinds will very shortly be enormously increased by means of the railways and the splendid waterways for getting the produce out of the country.

Uruguay, most favorably situated in respect of soil, climate and geographical position, hitherto regarded as purely pastoral, is becoming essentially agricultural by means of the European emigrants who are coming out in such vast numbers. The potentiality of these lands for the production of animal food, no less than cereals, is practically without limit. Cattle breeding for exportation is making rapid progress, and when the new lines of steamers take up the traffic they can ship enormous numbers to Europe without sensibly diminishing their flocks and herds, which in such climates, increase in compound proportion.

SHE WAS CAUGHT AT LAST

Alice Deshon, Wanted at San Francisco, Arrested in Vancouver Yesterday Afternoon.

About May 1 Alice Deshon, a courtesan, charged with conducting an indecent exhibition, "jumped" her bail in San Francisco, and came to this city.

Alfred "Nobby" Clark, one of her bondsmen, wrote to the chief of police of this city June 12, stating that he was very anxious to catch the woman, but gave no description of her. Officer Henry Griffin was not long in locating the woman and wired Clark that she was in Portland. The latter sent Officer John J. Green of San Francisco, to this city, he having arrived last Monday, having stopped off at Salem for a requisition. That evening in company with Officers Griffin and Barry, Mr. Green paid a visit to the woman's quarters No. 170 Third street, but she escaped into a notorious dive next door, where she was secreted until early the following morning when she left for Vancouver. By watching the woman's "lover," Richard Kentzel, a son of the late Captain Kentzel, of the San Francisco police force, Mr. Griffin located the woman in Vancouver, and yesterday, accompanied by Mr. Green, he went over to that city, and, with the aid of City Marshal Joe Handy, found the woman secreted in a hotel. She was loth to leave the place without seeing a lawyer, having been told by her friends that she was safe in Washington territory, but she was finally induced to go on the ferry. This was all the officers wanted, as they had a perfect right to take her where they wanted on touching Oregon soil. If she had made any fuss in Vancouver they would have been powerless to act, as they had no requisition papers from the governor of Washington territory.

Officer Green will leave with his prisoner on the next steamer for San Francisco.

A CHINESE FORGER.

Detective C. C. Cox, of San Francisco, Comes to Portland for Him.

Mew Shui Wan, wanted for forgery in San Francisco, was arrested in this city last Monday by Officer James Barry and locked up in the city prison. The arrest was kept very quiet as the police did not want the prisoner's friends to know of it, for fear that they would sue out a writ of habeas corpus before an officer with the proper papers should arrive.

Detective C. C. Cox on being apprised by wire of the arrest of Wan, immediately left for this city, arriving at Salem early yesterday morning. He was given requisition papers and came on to Portland, arriving here at 3:20 P. M. He immediately repaired to the city prison, was given his prisoner, asked the boys to have a smile, and drove back to the depot, taking the 4:20 overland train for San Francisco.

The Chinaman recognized Mr. Cox and smilingly answered to his name, asking if he was to be taken back. On receiving a reply in the affirmative he said in excellent English, "All right, I am ready."

Mew Wan was up to July 1 employed by Tong Wa & Co., Chinese merchants doing business at 722 Sacramento street, San Francisco, as interpreter and outside manager. He secured checks from Body & Haslett bonded warehousemen on a forged promissory note from his firm for $3000. He then forged indorsements on the checks and cashed them on the Bank of California, after which he fled to this city, but from appearances he struck a poor place to spend his ill gotten gains. He must have placed the greater part of his stolen money in safe keeping, for when arrested he had only about $160 on his person.

GEN. INGALLS GETS THERE.

Judge Stearns Holds That He Is the Guardian of the Holladay Heirs.

The Old Soldier Was the Choice of Mr. and Mrs. Holladay—Also of Their Children—Testamentary Guardians.

Judge Stearns, of part 2, state circuit court, yesterday held that Mrs. Ben Holladay had a legal right to appoint a testamentary guardian for her minor children, Linda and Ben, and reversed the decision of County Judge Catlin in refusing to confirm the appointment. Judge Stearns's decision gives the guardianship of the children to General Rufus Ingalls, who was nominated by Mrs. Holladay, and takes it from Mrs. Harriet B. Campbell, Mrs. Holladay's mother, whom Judge Catlin appointed.

There has been much interest in the point at issue owing to the diversity of opinion, and the appended resume of Judge Stearns's decision will be worth reading.

General Ingalls based his claim to be appointed guardian upon two grounds: First, that under the statutes of this state a married woman on the decease of her husband has a right to appoint a testamentary guardian of the person and estates of her minor children, and that having been duly appointed by the will of Mrs. Holladay he is the legal guardian of said children. Second, that if such right in a mother does not exist under the statute, then in equity and justice he should have been appointed by the county court under its general authority to appoint guardians for minors as the most fit and proper person to be appointed, since it was the solemnly expressed wish of the father and mother and the desire of the children as shown by their petition in writing on the application for letters, that he should be appointed guardian of their persons and estate.

RIGHTS OF A WIDOW.

The court held that the first question which arises is a construction of the statute as to whether or not a married woman may provide for the custody and estates of her children on the father's death by appointing a testamentary guardian. Under the old common law of England neither a father nor mother could appoint a testamentary guardian until Stat. 12 Car. 2 enabled a father by deed or will executed in the presence of two witnesses to dispose of the custody and tuition of his children under the age of 21 years and unmarried. This old statute of Charles II was virtually re-enacted in this state in 186[illegible] and still remains on the statutes in the following language:

Section 288—Every father may by his last will in writing appoint a guardian or guardians for any of his children, whether born at the time of making the will or afterwards, to continue during the minority of the child or for a less time, and every such testamentary guardian shall have the same powers and perform the same duties with regard to the person and estate of the ward as a guardian appointed by the county court.

It will be seen at once that this statute gives the right to the father and the father only to appoint a testamentary guardian, and that, too, whether the mother is living or dead. Under this statute and the old common law the father had the sole and absolute control of the person and estates of the minor children not only while he was living and the mother was living, but he had the power by will to appoint their guardian after his death, to the exclusion of the mother if living. At any rate, it has never been contended that this statute conferred upon the mother the right given to the father to appoint a testamentary guardian, unless it has been directly or impliedly modified and extended to her by other and existing statutes, and that is the question to be determined here.

CIVIL DISTINCTIONS ABOLISHED.

It seems almost unnecessary to state that the civil disabilities imposed upon married women by the common law in regard to their husbands, their children and their property and persons, have been almost entirely removed in this country. Such is peculiarly the case in this state. Laws have been passed and are now in force abolishing all civil distinctions between the husband and wife, excepting, perhaps, in what is sometimes termed the divine right to vote and hold office, and even this great privilege has been modified and extended to women in certain local affairs. A wife is now secure in her person, her property, her natural and civil rights, and for their protection may appeal to the courts in her own name, the same as her husband. Numerous rights and powers have been granted by the statute to married women and mothers. A mother may maintain an action for the injury or death of a child or the seduction of a daughter, may bind her children out as apprentices or surrender them to custody to benevolent institutions for reformation. She may manage and control her separate property, which is exempt from the debts of her husband, except the expenses of the family which are chargeable upon the property of the husband or wife jointly or severally. These illustrations are cited not as bearing directly upon the question of the right of a mother to appoint a testamentary guardian, but as showing the modern tendency of [illegible] in departing from the [illegible] of the old common law towards women, and fixing the spirit and temper in which this old statute of Charles II as re-enacted in the laws of 1862 must be construed and compared with the act of 1880 to establish and protect the rights of married women, which reads as follows:

SECTION 1—All laws which impose or recognize civil disabilities upon a wife which are not imposed or recognized as existing as to the husband are hereby repealed.

SEC. 2—Hereafter the rights and responsibilities of the parents in the absence of misconduct shall be equal, and the mother shall be as fully entitled to the custody and control of the children and their earnings as the father, and in case of the father's death the mother shall come into as full and complete control of the children and their estate as the father does in case of the mother's death. All laws and portions of laws inconsistent with the foregoing are hereby repealed.

EQUALITY OF RESPONSIBILITIES.

These statutes must be construed together. Under the old statute the husband could appoint a testamentary guardian of his children after his death to the exclusion of the mother. This new statute has certainly modified and limited the right of the husband to dispose of the custody of the children during the lifetime of the wife, for the act expressly states that in case of the father's death the mother shall come into as full and complete control of the children and their estate as the father does in case of the mother's death. Under this act, then, neither husband nor wife can dispose of the children by will to the exclusion of the other while surviving. If the father still has the power under the old statute to dispose of the children by will in case of the mother's death, the question is, can the mother dispose of the children under the new statute in case of the father's death? Either the new statute entirely abrogates the right of either to appoint a testamentary guardian or it confers the power equally upon both in case of the death of either. No other construction can be put upon these acts when taken as a whole and construed together.

The new act provides that henceforth the rights and responsibilities of the parents shall be equal, and the mother shall be as fully entitled to the custody and control of the children and their earnings during their unmarried life as the father, and in case of the father's death the mother shall come into as full and complete control of the children and their estate as the father does in the case of the mother's death. In brief then, during the married life the rights and control of the parents are equal. If the mother dies the father assumes sole control and may dispose of the custody of the children by will. If the father dies the mother assumes sole custody and control and comes into as full and complete control of the children and their estate as the father does in the case of the mother's death."

Can it be consistently said that the rights of the parents are equal, and that the mother, when the father dies, shall come into as complete control of the children and their estate as the father does in case of the mother's death, if it shall be held that under the old statute the father, in case of the mother's death, has the right to dispose of the custody of the children by appointing a testamentary guardian, and the mother in the case of the father's death has not? The mere statement of the proposition refutes such a conclusion. It certainly would not be the equality of rights and responsibilities between the parents contemplated by this act, or grant to the mother as full and complete control as the father possessed.

THE PARENTS ON EQUAL TERMS.

The intention of the act was clearly to remove the distinctions that formerly existed between husband and wife and make them exactly equal under the law in the disposition, care and control of their children both before and after death. To say that the rights are equal when the father may dispose of his children after his death by will and the mother may not is absurd, unjust and unnatural. It is one of the very abuses and barbarisms of the old common law that this statute intended to correct. In my opinion it has effectually done so and made the parents equal in the exercise of these vital and tender rights. It has either completely abolished and abrogated the right of the father to appoint a testamentary guardian under the laws of this state or it has conferred the same appointing power upon the mother. I am inclined to accept the latter construction, and I am therefore of the opinion that General Ingalls was duly and legally appointed testamentary guardian of the children under the will of the late Mrs. Holladay and is entitled to the control of their persons and estates.

Having determined the appeal upon the first ground set up by the appellant, it is unnecessary to discuss the questions involved in the second ground. But granting that a married woman has no power to appoint a testamentary guardian in this state, there were some weighty considerations presented to the discretion of the court supporting the application of General Ingalls to be appointed guardian by the county court, outside of his legal claim under the will.

GENERAL INGALLS WAS THE FAVORITE.

It appeared from the evidence that General Ingalls was the choice of the mother and father of the children for the appointment of guardian. The children expressed their choice in writing to the county court at the time of the application of General Ingalls, and one being of the age of 12 and the other of 10 years, they were old enough to know who they wanted and make their choice of course some weight, other things being equal. Of course these are matters that are addressed to the discretion of the court and are not final, as the law has provided that where there is no guardian appointed by will, the county court shall in all cases appoint the relations of the minor, the nearest relative having precedence, provided the applicant is of good moral character and shall be otherwise competent to discharge the duties of guardian. This law, however, gives large discretion to the court, and it is not always exercised in favor of the relative to the exclusion of others who, in the judgment of the court, are more competent under all circumstances to discharge the duties of guardian for the best interests of the children. The clearly expressed wishes of the parents and the disinterested choice of the minor when of mature age enough to know his own mind and feelings have always been given great weight by the courts in determining the appointment of guardians. Of so much influence is the wish of the minor that our statute has provided that a person of the age of 14 years may nominate his own guardian, and if approved by the court, shall be appointed.

HE ENJOYED MRS. HOLLADAY'S CONFIDENCE.

Another reason for the appointment of General Ingalls is presented with great force in this case, and that is the peculiar conditions of the will. Mrs. Holladay reposed great faith in him as an old personal friend of her husband, herself and children, and bequeathed all the property to him in trust for the minors, to be used, managed, controlled and disposed of by him for their use as he saw fit. It is justly claimed that the refusal to appoint a testamentary guardian under such circumstances overturns the object of the testator in making the will, not only as it regards the disposition of the minor children, but also the entire management and distribution of the estate, which was especially devised in view of the executor being also the guardian of the children, thereby [illegible] the main intention and purpose of the will. Unlimited discretion was vested in the executor and guardian, as the custodian in the control of the children and the use and distribution of the estate, and a severance of these duties and powers between persons of different families and sympathies, however honest, will naturally lead to a conflict and want of harmony in the management of the children's property that cannot be satisfactory to either. The [illegible] supposed that all the interests would be vested in one person, whom she had appointed and in whom [illegible] children had [illegible] him, [illegible] the will of the mother and children under such conditions and appoint another person than her [illegible] should require the gravest reasons [illegible] the interest of the estate and the welfare of the children.

THE ASTORIA & S C RAILWAY

The Company Means Business—Progress of the Work of Construction—Rolling Stock to Arrive.

Mr. William P. [illegible], president of the Astoria & South Coast Railroad Company, informs an OREGONIAN reporter that the Pullman Car Company, of Illinois, yesterday completed the first five freight cars, flat, broad gauge, twenty tons capacity, for the Astoria & South Coast road, which were shipped to St. Louis there to be loaded with rails for Astoria. Other twenty freight cars, twenty-five tons capacity, are now under construction by the Pullman company, to be finished on the 28th of July and then sent to St. Louis for the rails there, and the remaining five flat cars will reach St. Louis from Pullman on the 8th of August. These cars are marked "Astoria & South Coast Railway" and will bring with them all the rails necessary to lay the track from Young's bay to the Ocean house. The locomotive No. 1 was inspected yesterday at Danville, Ill., and will reach Astoria in fourteen or sixteen days.

The company has now under consideration an offer of 1000 tons of fifty pound steel rails from Chicago to complete the road from Young's bay into the heart of the city of Astoria and extend the line southward from the ocean shores to a fine timber region. Two surveying parties have been formed by F. E. Habersham, the engineer. One leaves this morning to locate the line from the Ocean house and the other leaves on Monday to locate that portion from the Willamette valley across the coast range to Astoria. The first excursion train is to arrive at Astoria about the end of August, and whenever the first ten miles beyond the Ocean house have been surveyed by the engineers the construction company will commence work—expected about the end of this month—on the grading. As the rails have to wait for the Astoria Railway Company's flat cars to be constructed at Pullman in order to bring these rails overland in that company's own cars, it is not expected that tracklaying will be completed and the road in running operation to the Ocean house until the end of August. All of the ties, 41,000, for the fourteen miles are now lying delivered on the grade at Skipanon ready to be laid down whenever the locomotive arrives. This weighs twenty-eight tons and is a Rogers make, cylinders 13x22, standard gauge.

The contractors will commence work not later than the 1st of August, and will continue grading during the fall and winter season and hope to reach a fine timber region tributary to Astoria with track laid thereto by the last week of January, unless work is stopped by severe rains or some unforeseen occurrence. Mr. Reed states that the contract has been let for and work commenced on one mile of the trestle work between the west shore of Young's bay and to the channel of that river, and when completed in six weeks another contract will be let for the east portion of that bridge from the channel 2500 feet to Smith's Point on the Astoria side, and continued into the city, leaving the bridge uncompleted [illegible] the iron work arrives from the East [illegible].

The site of the passenger depot in Astoria has not yet been determined, but a contract has been let for the construction of the Astoria terminus and passenger depot wherever located by the board of directors. Various liberal offers have been made for sites for a passenger depot at the south end of Astoria, below Elmore's cannery, but the general plan is as to be that the line should be extended into the city as far as Lafayette street, where a passenger depot will be built if the owners of property in that vicinity to be improved by the depot will vacate fifteen or twenty feet adjoining the street.

TOSSED ON OCEAN'S WRATHFUL WASTE

Letter From a Young Sailor Who Returned to His English Home on the Edward O'Brien.

"Home again, home again,
From a foreign shore."

Mr. F[illegible], of this city, is in receipt of an interesting letter from David Jones, a young seaman who sailed from Tacoma on the ship Edward O'Brien, bound for Queenstown. The vessel sailed from Tacoma January 2, and arrived at Queenstown June 16. The letter bears date of Liverpool, June 20. Among other things the writer says:

"I arrived here Monday night and we laid six days in Queenstown. The trip I came home on I hardly need to tell you was a very hot one, but I am pleased to say that I got along better than I did in any other ship. I have the chance of going back either as third mate or second boatswain, but I would not go in her (the Edward O'Brien) for $100 a month, and have to beat men the way the officers did. There were four men in that ship triced up by the thumbs for threatening to kill the mate. One of them had a revolver in his breast at the time he was brought up on the [illegible], but he had no chance to use it, I suppose. I came near forgetting to tell you that we had a very stormy passage. Two men were washed overboard, but we got them again with a great deal of trouble, more dead than alive. Another seaman also fell from the rigging while reefing the sails, and broke his leg and cut his face."

The young man concludes his letter by telling how glad his father and mother were to see him, and how happy he was to once more visit home.

THE KANSAS OFFICERS ARRIVE AT LAST

But Mrs. Lizzie Walters, Whom They Want for Murder, Is Gone.

Constable Carraway, of Kansas, who has been hunting Mrs. Lizzie Walters, wanted for murder, arrived from California accompanied by Detective Clemens, yesterday, and felt considerably down in the mouth when he learned that his bird had been released on a writ of habeas corpus and had flown. Constable Carraway said Mrs. Walters, whom he believes is unmarried, is wanted in Kansas for the murder of her illegitimate child. He says that on the 28th of June she went to Girard under the assumed name of Mary Wheeler and was seen with a two weeks old child which she intrusted to the care of a midwife. Later in the day she took the child to visit a brother-in-law a few miles distant, but when she reached his house she was minus the babe. Two days later the body of an infant was found in a pond midway between Girard and her brother-in-law's place. Its identity was established by the clothing it wore. The evidence against her is purely circumstantial.

THE BIG EAST SIDE SUBURB.

The Singular Larceny Case of Jennie Lewis Investigated.

She Waives and Is Bound Over to Appear—Can Not Insure Cord Wood—Money Raised—Various Items.

Jennie Lewis, an unmarried woman who was arrested Wednesday evening charged with having stolen a trunk full of goods from Mrs. Howard, living on the Milwaukee road, was arraigned before Justice Mayo yesterday at 10 A. M. She had been confined in the county jail during Wednesday night and appeared with counsel.

In the meantime Marshal Morgan had returned to the defendant's house and secured the trunk which was concealed under the house. This trunk contained all the goods that were not obtained in the first place and were on exhibition in the court room.

Her counsel, F. Mendenhall and Alfred Sears, asked the court to give them time to look into the case and stated that while the goods had been found in the house of the defendant there was reason to believe they had been left there by some one else. The woman had always borne a good reputation and had worked for families in which she lived, among them Sheriff Kelly's family. [illegible] the goods in the woman's (Lewis) house. Prosecuting Attorney Hall opposed any delay, as he stated that Wednesday night when Miss Lewis was first brought to the city hall she claimed that the goods were hers and had not been left by any one.

Justice Mayo decided to continue the case until 7 o'clock last night. At that time the woman was brought over from the county jail and arraigned. She waived examination and was bound over to appear before the grand jury, and in default of bail she was taken to the county jail.

The goods taken were valued at about $400. The trunk in which they were stored was a large Saratoga, which cost $1[illegible], and when filled with the goods taken must have weighed 1,200 pounds. The articles taken were silk and [illegible] dresses, shoes, sheets, blankets, shawls, common dresses for children, etc.

Everything in the house of value was carefully packed into the trunk. Among the goods was a fine black silk dress that cost $[illegible] and a dress pattern worth $1[illegible]. Mrs. Howard was much delighted as she rummaged among the articles to find them all, but dismayed when she discovered one silk dress all cut to pieces.

This is a most remarkable case. Mrs. Howard did not suspect Miss Lewis, and had her employed washing Wednesday. A small matter aroused her suspicions and led to the arrest of the Lewis woman. When the trunk was removed from the house, it was dragged to the Lewis house, more than one and one-half miles away. It was traced in that direction for some distance. An apron was found in an orchard through which the trunk had been dragged, known to belong to Miss Lewis. Mrs. Howard picked it up and took it to her house. Wednesday Miss Lewis saw this apron and appeared uneasy. She asked Mrs. Howard where it came from and on being informed advised Mrs. Howard to burn it. Mrs. Howard thought nothing more of the matter, but after the woman had gone she missed the apron. She subsequently found it in the stove, but not burned. Her suspicions were aroused at once and she went for the city marshal. That officer went to Miss Lewis's house and making a search, found some of the goods in the house and the rest were found in the trunk under the house. When first taken to the recorder's office she declared the goods were her own, but yesterday she evidently had told her counsel that they had been left there by some man, whose name she did not give.

She is the owner of the house and lot where she lived, having earned it with her own labor. She has been contemplating selling her place and going East, and had an offer of $600. It is held by her counsel that some man must have assisted her or taken the goods, as it would have been almost impossible for a woman to have moved the heavy trunk one and one half miles. But the case is now in the hands of the grand jury, and an investigation may throw some light on the subject.

WANT TO INSURE.

Since fires began spreading in the timber on the peninsula there is great uneasiness among those having cord wood in that neighborhood, and they have been endeavoring to have their wood insured. But it is stated that no policies will be issued on wood out there and notices of cancellation of policies are being given.

SINGING ON THE STREETS.

The Salvationists returning from Portland Wednesday night commenced singing as they were passing along I street, and were compelled to desist by Officer Gatchet. These people receive the protection of the police, and they, above all, should not violate an ordinance.

MONEY RAISED.

Over $400 have been raised to purchase horses for the fire engine. This matter is in the hands of the members of the fire and water committee, who will probably report at the council meeting next Monday night.

A SMALL EXPENSE.

Should the new hook and ladder company be organized in the Third ward the expense will not be great, as there is an extra truck in the engine room on Third and J streets.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

Mr. S. Scott and family left for the seaside last night, where he will camp all summer.

It is supposed that one of the bunko sharps who fleeced Jacob Zimmerman has gone to Tacoma.

The remains of Miss Jessie McKenny, who committed suicide Wednesday, will be buried to-day.

Contractor Davison returned Wednesday night from Astoria. He secured several building contracts while there.

Mrs. N. Boyce, accompanied by her brother Joseph Knott, left for the [illegible] camp, Long Beach, Wednesday.

Mr. Brown, of the Hawthorne Avenue railway, states yesterday that it was expected that the line will be in operation next week. Some changes have had to be made in the motor.

Walter Jones has made preliminary arrangements for moving the Odd Fellows' building on Tenth and J streets. The heavy timbers were placed under the building its entire length, and it will soon be on the way to its destination on Fifth and J streets.

PORTLAND, FRIDAY, JULY 12.

MARRIED WOMEN AND TIMBER LAND.

A matter of great interest to married women in this state is a late ruling by S M Stockslager, until recently commissioner of the general land office, which denies to them the right to take up timber land under the act of June 3, 1878 Prior to this ruling married women possessing money in their own right could select a quarter section of public land valuable chiefly for stone or timber and by complying with the provisions of the act above mentioned, could purchase such land from the general government. But Commissioner Stockslager's ruling has changed all this and timber claims of married women already taken up are being held for cancellation and registers at the various land offices in the state have since receiving this decision refused to accept any more filings from applicants who are married women The impression has gone abroad, because Mr Barnes the register of the office at Oregon City was the first to refuse to accept a filing by a married woman that it was a ruling made by himself personally from which it would be necessary to appeal to Washington To correct this impression and that all may understand the points of law upon which the ex commissioner based his decision we quote the original ruling in full

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR }
GENERAL LAND OFFICE }
WASHINGTON D C, May 20 1889 }

Register and Receiver Oregon City Oregon—GENTLEMEN Referring to office letter of February 9, 1889 calling for evidence as to whether the entry woman was married or single in case of Delilah Stinkel, No 417 under act of June 3, 1878 for SE ¼ SW ¼, sec 22, T 4 S R 10 E and your response of March 14 1889 containing affidavit of the claimant to the effect that she was married at the time of making said entry you are advised that the 11th clause of the circular of May 1 1887, provides that a married woman may make an entry under the act of June 3 1878 when the laws of the state or territory permit her to purchase and hold real estate as a feme sole.

In Isabella M Dwyer 6 L D 12, the secretary says "As the laws of California permit a married woman to purchase and hold realty as a feme sole and to control and manage her separate property, free from all and any interference from her husband, I am of opinion that the entryman in the case is entitled to purchase under the act of June 3 1878"

"The civil code of California section 162 provides that 'All property of the wife owned by her before marriage, and that acquired afterward by gift, bequest devise or descent with the rents, issues and profits thereof is her separate property, the wife may without the consent of her husband, convey her separate property'"

Section 2992, page 1352, of the second volume of Hill's Annotated Laws of Oregon provides that "the property and pecuniary rights of every married woman at the time of her marriage, or afterwards acquired by gift, devise, or inheritance shall not be subject to the debts or contracts of her husband and she may manage, sell convey or devise the same by will to the same extent and in the same manner that her husband can property belonging to him'

Section 2994 provides that where a wife is abandoned and such abandonment is adjudged by the county court, she may during the absence of the husband sell convey and deal with her separate property as if she were a feme sole

Section 3003 provides that "a husband and wife may, by their joint deed convey the real estate of the wife in like manner as she might do by her separate deed if she were unmarried * * *

It is held in Elliot vs. Teal 5 Saw 249 that a married woman can only convey her real property by joining her husband with her in the deed and that a conveyance by her alone or in pursuance of a power executed by her is void

It will be observed that the California Code provides that the married woman may convey her property without the consent of her husband thus giving her the same rights as if she were sole

Section 2992 of the Oregon law gives the wife the same right to convey etc as the husband has, but he cannot sell real estate without his wife joining to convey her dower so this section on its face does not place her in the situation of a feme sole And section 3003 expressly provides for the husband to join in the deed to her land, and the court holds that her conveyance without his joining is void

This negatives the idea of her control over the property as a feme sole for a feme sole can sell her property without the consent of any one so can a married woman in California, but in Oregon she cannot even sell her interest in her own realty without the consent of her husband

Again the fact that section 2994 provides how she may have the right to act as a feme sole upon the adjudication of a court in case she has been abandoned, is conclusive that she is not regarded as having the power to so act, for if she had this power this section of the statute would not be needed

I therefore conclude that a married woman can not make an entry under the act of June 3 1878 in the state of Oregon, and the entry of Delilah Stinkel is held for cancellation

You will report to this office in due time. Very respectfully S M STOCKSLAGER,
Commissioner

On June 22, the entry of Annie Oliverson, of Astoria, Clatsop county, at the Oregon City office, for the southwest ¼ of the southwest ¼ of section 23 township 7 north, range 9 west, was suspended, and the entry held for cancellation by the now Acting Commissioner W M. Stone, who, in so doing, said

The testimony submitted shows her to have been a married woman at the time of making said entry, and therefore not qualified, in the state of Oregon to perfect an entry under act of June 3, 1878.

While the registers of the land office in this state are compelled to enforce this ruling it is believed and all applicants are so assured, that the ex commissioner's decision in this matter will be overruled by the secretary of the interior upon an appeal soon to be taken by Hon L T Barin in a number of cases now pending There is no justice in denying a married woman in Oregon what is allowed her married sister in California.

PERNICIOUS CLEMENCY

The convicted jobber and politician Joseph Mackin of Chicago was released from prison by pardon a short time ago, an act so outrageously unjust as to call out the sharp criticism of the press A journal of that city, however, essays to answer the objections raised in the premises by pointing out the fact that if clemency had not thus been extended to him he would have been discharged anyhow, under the rules of the prison and by the terms extended to him on the 17th of August

This fact, if suggestive of anything except that the term would even then have been all too short to meet the requirements of justice in his case suggests that it would not have worked the criminal any great hardship to have compelled him to serve out his sentence If judicial proceedings resulted in a decree that would have been satisfied on the 17th of August by limitation of sentence the lesson of keeping him there until that date was one that was greatly needed A thorough appreciation of the necessity of enforcing obedience to the law in the case of people holding public positions would have declared most positively against the abridgment of this man's sentence by a single day Even if he was considered an especial object of compassion, an additional six weeks of imprisonment could not have worked him great hardship, while from a public point of view it might have served an extremely good purpose

An example greatly needed in the nation to-day is that which would be furnished by the spectacle of criminals of money and influence, men grown rich and arrogant through the abuse of public or private trust serving out the full sentences which, after grievous delay of justice, have been meted out to them for their transgressions of the law.

Next to the pardon of a man who was serving out a life sentence in the Oregon penitentiary "because he was likely to die soon," this pardon of the noted Chicago criminal "because his term would soon have expired anyway" is the most notable. In either case, justice aside, there was not the slightest reason for the exercise of the pardoning power, since the sentences of the criminals were nearing their fulfillment without executive intervention Such excuses for interfering with the course of penalty would be amusing were not the encouragement that they afford criminals outside of prison walls a public menace

FOR WHAT GOOD?

To what end of practicable good does Dr Brooks the candidate for vice president on the national prohibition ticket in 1888 preach the gospel of prohibition at this time in Oregon? The people at large have tested prohibition as a practical remedial measure of liquor legislation and have dismissed it with a vote of want of confidence. Nearly all the states of the North have made a trial of it and have repealed it The official returns of the recent election in Pennsylvania show the aggregate vote on the proposed amendment to the constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of liquor was 781 261 the largest vote ever cast in the state outside of a presidential election with the single exception of the gubernatorial contest in 1886 It is within 216 307 of the whole vote cast for all four presidential candidates after the exciting campaign last fall and within 37 961 of the exceptionally heavy vote for governor in 1886 Of this total vote 484 644 ballots were cast against the amendment and 296 617 for it the adverse majority being 188 027

On the constitutional amendment submitted at the same time abolishing the poll tax upon voters a total vote of 603 091 was recorded and it was defeated by [illegible] 96 majority showing that 177 [illegible] persons voted on prohibition who did not vote either way on the suffrage amendment

These figures refute the charge of the prohibitionists that the two old parties combined to rout prohibition The issue was one of high license or unlimited liquor selling High license had worked well, and the people of Pennsylvania without regard to partisan politics voted not to exchange the successful practice of a high license law for the impracticable theory of prohibition On the other hand both the republican and democratic party machines wanted the suffrage amendment carried but the people took little interest in its fate and it was defeated and the Philadelphia Inquirer says

These figures effectually dispose of the talk that prohibition was beaten by the political machines Both political machines were in favor of the suffrage amendment but they had no more power to save it than they had to defeat or save prohibition The result is the unmistakable verdict of the people

And now Kansas is agitating the question of resubmitting its prohibitory amendment to the people The result of the voting in New Hampshire, Massachusetts Rhode Island and Pennsylvania is reported to be worth 50 000 votes for the repeal of prohibition in Kansas where it is alleged more liquor is consumed than when licenses were granted The difference under the new order of things is that while Kansas gets all the rum she wants the adjoining states get all the license money The resubmissionists in order to carry their point will require a two thirds vote in the legislature and the approval of the governor Nevertheless the resubmissionists have strong hope of victory in a vigorous presentation of what is termed 'the financial effect of prohibition' that is proof that the prohibitory law has injured the trade and decreased the value of property in the state The Atchison correspondent of the Kansas City Times sets forth this financial effect of prohibition as follows

During the last five years scores of good citizens and a great many substantial business men have left the city leaving hundreds of dwelling and business houses standing empty and representative men of Atchison have no hesitancy in attributing this state of affairs to prohibition The people are not satisfied with the prohibitory law because an extensive liquor business is carried on in open violation of the law, and no revenue is derived therefrom by the city In the year 1884, the open saloons were closed under the prohibitory law and the county paid several thousand dollars costs in having the law enforced The year before the revenue derived by the city from the open saloons was $11 2[illegible]0 which went into the city treasury to be expended in a manner that would be beneficial to the best interests of the city

After the enforcement of the prohibitory law, so far as the open saloons were concerned, the joint came into immediate existence, and liquor has been sold daily in large quantities ever since the city deriving no benefit with the exception of regular fines paid into the police court by jointists The bitter hatred between citizens of different political beliefs, that originated at the commencement of the prohibition fight in this city, has never died out The enemies of five years ago are enemies to-day and this one thing has caused so much discontent and dissatisfaction that people have lost confidence in each other A number of Atchison gentlemen recently organized the Midland Trust Company of Kansas City

"Why did you not keep the institution in Atchison?" was asked yesterday of one of the officers of the company He replied "It would not pay to do it The people have no confidence in each other and where that state of affairs exists, business will not prosper"

A manufacturer says prohibition has damaged Atchison more than $2 000 000 in five years The dry goods firms the real estate dealers the wholesale druggists confirm this view The cashier of the leading bank says 'prohibition has vacated hundreds of houses in this city, reduced rents, and been very detrimental to the business interests of Atchison,' and the president of the same bank believes that 'prohibition is the greatest financial curse to Kansas" More people move to California from Iowa and Kansas than from any other states Real estate dealers declare that prohibition has reduced rents 25 per cent, and greatly increased taxes, while a former mayor is sure that just as much liquor is sold as before, while the revenue is lost

From Iowa comes the same story of decline in the prosperity and trade of many large towns and cities The Rev Dr Brooks treats prohibition not as a mere means to an end to be tested by trial, but as the one altogether lovely royal road to temperance between which and high license there can be no moral ground There can be no choice for a good man save that taken by Dr. Brooks But Cardinal Gibbons says,

I am decidedly opposed to prohibition as a means of preventing intemperance, because it does not prohibit Experience has shown that in those states where prohibition has been tried it is not an effective means of preventing the vice of drinking Prohibition is to be discouraged also because it confounds the drunkard with those who use liquor in moderation making out a sin where there is no sin The only places where prohibition might be enforced are thinly settled country districts I regard high license with a moral sanction as the most efficient way of diminishing the drinking vice

A LIBERAL PROPOSITION

The Typographical Union of Tacoma embodies its opinions upon constitution making in a series of suggestions which it caused to be submitted to the convention Wednesday Among these is a provision for an annual session of the state legislature, without restriction as to the length of the sitting Whether such extraordinary opportunity for keeping a law making body in constant session at the capital of the new state is suggested in the interest of hotel keepers, politicians or impecunious individuals who though they cannot get on in the world single handed feel thoroughly competent to draw per diem as law makers every day in the year, can only be conjectured It is certainly not in the interest of the tax payers of the new state nor of the community that under a new regime is likely, with the most prudent management, to have more law than will conduce to good order until the statutes are properly pruned. The experience of Oregon is in evidence that biennial sessions of the legislature are sufficiently frequent for the enactment of all necessary laws and for some other things not so needful Neither are the records lacking in proof that a legislative session of forty days is quite long enough for all legitimate purposes and some that cannot be strictly thus catalogued The business of the term is usually crowded into the last few days of the session and the fewer pet measures that members have had time to get ready for final action on these days the fewer mischievous or useless laws are added to the statutes The proposition to leave it to legislators to say when they think they have made laws enough, shows a childish confidence in the 'politician for revenue only" that is touching or it would be if permitted to reach for the pockets of the tax payers The well known tendency of the great North American office holder to hold on and hold over does not justify such confidence even in the most unsophisticated

POLITICAL INDIFFERENCE

The citizen who remains at home or devotes himself strictly to business on election day is the one who complains most bitterly of present political methods Party power he complains, is in the hands of wire workers selected for their availability and not for their merit or fitness to represent the people and those only succeed who go into politics for the money made in the manipulation of popular sentiment This class of citizens hold aloof from what they term the mire of politics, and very much resemble the lady in high society who would have been charitable only she did not like to go into the haunts of the poor for fear of soiling her skirts

If the ward heeler the precinct worker and the saloon keeper control politics the blame lies wholly with those sensitive creatures who see political corruption staring the community in the face yet who will lift neither hand nor voice to stay the tide of evil as if wrong or evil was ever righted or remedied without strong and mighty effort

It is absolutely necessary that men of intelligence and business standing should examine more closely into political affairs and exhibit a deeper interest, not only in municipal politics but in state and national matters as well Some clean sweeping must be done in the political household The man who enters public life to secure a perpetual mortgage on a livelihood rather than to serve faithfully and well the true interests of the people must be thrust out In the place of such public leeches must be substituted men who will give to the government the same honest and devoted service they would to private business or enterprise

When intelligence and business foresight is induced to the primaries and conventions the tough element will retire and the saloon keeper and gambling fraternity will be deprived of their 'pull' Then and not until then will the public be saved from the pernicious spectacle of factions making unblushing war upon each other to secure the spoils To secure purity and decency in politics the dainty grumbler must take off gloves, remove his coat and plunge right into the work Else were he to live as long as Methuselah, he would still behold in constant increase the same cause for complaint

If the present dry weather continues as it is likely to do for some days or weeks the forest fire that caused such damage back of Albina a few days ago is likely to be duplicated in other localities The temptations to those engaged in clearing land to fire their slashings while the dry brush insures a 'clean burn,' is strong and the most intelligent vigilance is necessary in order that serious mischief may not result from indulging in it An attempt will be made to secure damages from the employers of those who set this fire, which, if successful will do more towards introducing care in firing slashings than will all the exhortations to carefulness than can be given An easy, good natured person who does not intend to inflict damage upon his neighbor in this way will see to it that his good intentions do not miscarry if it is reasonably certain that he has to pay for it

The triangle bounded by the Hudson, Harlem and East rivers is the richest spot of its size on earth Valuation of real estate as made up by the city assessors is $1,[illegible] 000 000 and of personal property $ 72 000 000 Persons well informed relative to the magnificence and extent of the personal property belonging to the millionaires and multi millionaires of that city declare that the value of this is at least equal to that of the real estate, but by certain processes not unknown even in Oregon much of this property escapes taxation This is the city that is plaintively begging, in the name of patriotism, the people of other sections to come forward and help build a monument to General Grant whose sepulcher its citizens secured as an attraction to one of its public parks

The death of Julia Gardiner Tyler for twenty-seven years the widow of John Tyler tenth president of the United States, occurred at Richmond Wednesday She was married to President Tyler during his term of office and was for eight months the hostess of the White house. She was 67 years old at the time of her death, having been but 24 years of age when she became the second wife of President Tyler Her name has been on the United States pension rolls for more than a quarter of a century and her death leaves Mrs Garfield Mrs. Grant and the aged Mrs Polk the only surviving widows of presidents Mrs Tyler was an accomplished amiable woman, a zealous Roman Catholic and devoted to the charities of the church

Kilrain crept out of the Sunny South sorely bruised both in body and spirit, and Sullivan skulked out by a circuitous route, his movements accelerated by the rumor of his late antagonist's death only to be caught and imprisoned at Nashville It is a pity that gentlemen cannot indulge their tastes and prove their quality without having their footsteps dogged by meddlesome officials Such persecution is likely to close the door of a successful lecture engagement against these sloggers, a thing unheard of in the lives of celebrated people in this country heretofore

The Persian minister at Washington weighted down, beneath the cognomen, Hadge Hassien Ghooli Kahn, has resigned The reason assigned was the harsh and ungentle treatment which the American newspapers accorded his royal master The true inwardness of the resignation was however, that the representative of Persia was no longer received in Washington's diplomatic society on account of his very bad manners Rumor says that he secured the services of an instructress in English and politeness whose ignorance caused the minister's undoing

Montana prohibitionists are unusually liberal While praying the constitutional convention to prohibit the manufacture and sale of liquor within the jurisdiction of the state of Montana they generously add "except for medicinal and sacerdotal purposes" It is not quite clear whether they propose to increase the sick list or the membership of churches by this process

The true reformer is at work upon the Montana constitution He proposes to make the ability to read and write the English language, and the non conviction for treason or felony essential qualifications for voters This proposition can hardly be considered "good politics" according to the modern interpretation of the term, but there is a vast amount of prudence and plain common sense in it There is good reason to fear, however that reformers of this class have come into the world too soon to witness the success of their plans. Political stress is likely to occur in any election from the presidential contest down to the annual school election, in which the votes shut out by this proposition will be urgently needed

The rancor of fate seems to pursue the very name of Johnstown A village of that name in New York is the latest victim of the floods. A cloud-burst was the agent in this disaster, sending the usually insignificant waters of a heretofore unknown creek up to the top of the villagers' cottages in a few hours The misfortune though light compared to that which devastated the Pennsylvania Johnstown was yet serious enough to cause the loss of a number of lives and much distress from wrecked homes

The new English minister Sir Julian Pauncefote is going to try American farming near the capital and is said to be diligently studying our national history The first scheme is a commendable one, we grant, however slightly suspicious of the latter The late minister Sackville West was a student of American history and his researches led him into the democratic camp Sir Julian however seems to be a man of good common sense and he may keep out of such errors as his predecessor committed

The eighty ninth annual commencement exercises of Middlebury Vermont college were concluded on the 3d of July A feature of the occasion was a reunion of the class of [illegible] in which seven out of the fourteen surviving members were present Among those graduated in this class half a century ago was the poet John G Saxe whose death occurred some two years ago after he had lived some years in enforced retirement on account of failing mental power

The value of the estate of the late General Cameron is nearly $1 500,000 Each of a long list of relatives is generously remembered in the will of the aged statesman but the bulk of the vast property is devised to his son Senator Cameron

GENTILES OPPOSED TO STATEHOOD

They Hope to Carry the Day in the Salt Lake City Election Next Year

Dr Allen Fowler and J J Daly of Salt Lake City are in Portland on business and pleasure They will leave for San Francisco this afternoon and return in a few days Both are highly delighted with Portland Dr Fowler thinks Portland's prospects are better than those of any place he knows of

"The Mormon power is steadily waning in Utah" said the doctor to a reporter last evening The gentiles carried Ogden last fall and we expect to carry Salt Lake at the city election next February If we succeed the city will have a general boom The Mormon council now in [illegible] backs [illegible] progress or improvement of any kind, and if we get away with them the city will benefit by it But they are foxy coons, and will use every effort to stave us off They have resorted to a political trick that is very common in cities about election time Anticipating a hard fight the council is taking steps toward building a sewer upon which Mormon laborers are to be employed These men are to come from the country and as it requires but thirty days residence in the precinct to vote they will be on hand to help [illegible] on election day"

"How are the Gentiles on the statehood question?" was asked

"They are practically opposed to it If Utah is admitted to the Union it will be the means of [illegible] all the good that was accomplished [illegible] The Mormons are now [illegible] with the expectation of getting statehood [illegible] which would place the Gentiles at their mercy"

FEW SHORT BITS OF NEWS.

The Man Who Broke a Bottle of Gold Dust.

Great Fakirs Galore—The New Hotel—Improvement of the Umpqua—Tennis Tournament—Pacific Coast Elevators

IT DIDN'T WORK, YOU KNOW.—A man having the appearance of a laborer called at the Commercial National bank yesterday and called for the president, Mr. D P Thompson He was directed to Mr Thompson's office and just as he was about to enter he let fall a phial which broke on the marble floor Mr Thompson imagined a dynamiter was after him but the man got down and commenced trusting together particles of gold dust and scraping up some he had about $1 50 He said he had taken it in the vial, which he had taken from a few pans full of dirt in a very rich mine which he wished he had discovered an interest in which he wished to sell Mr. Thompson The latter however had no use for investing so the miner said he must have $5 to get home with as he had lost his dust which he expected to sell Mr Thompson did not care for this investment and the man then wanted $3 50 and failing to get it went off mad The ... very honest miner but Mr Thompson is of the opinion that he is a fraud and had put up a very neat little job to get $25 out of him

STREET "AMUSEMENTS."—People who have time to stroll around town in the evening need not lack amusement. There is a fakir or an evangelist, or something of the kind on every street corner. Some are out for gain and some to make a holy show of themselves Here is seen a regular load of fellows selling some kind of "patent" medicine, and a little farther on an old gentleman has an exhibition with microscopes and a powerful glass which enables one to see his fingers through a block of wood or a brick which arouses great wonder in the minds of those who do not know of the laws of reflection On the next corner is seen a stout old woman singing and exhorting at the top of her voice The amount of good she accomplishes neither she nor anyone else can measure Some people who take innumerable mistakes in the management of their own affairs, imagine they can lo g ... it ... in regarding other people of what their duties are.

PORTLAND AND ELLENSBURGH.—The Ellensburgh merchants who suffered by the recent fire are in good standing with their Portland creditors The day after the fire a Portland firm telegraphed to an Ellensburgh customer "Never mind your old account with us. If you want more goods order them One of the other day, sufferers came to the city the other day, and calling on a firm to whom he owed ... offered his insurance policy which was $1500 for security "That's all right," said the head of the house returning the policy ... so settle your other creditors and pay me when you get ready He called at another house and received the same answer Thereupon he concluded that the Portland merchants were pretty good men to trade with and he laid in a stock of goods. The Portland merchants are elated with the grit of the Ellensburghers and will let them have all the goods they want.

PUSHING THE WORK.—The east court at the new hotel has been leveled off, and a flooring of rough boards placed over a large part of it on which the mortar for the building will be piled The ... mixing it is ready and there will soon be a large pile made. The lathing of the southern and central sections is well along and the plasterers will soon be following them The wood work is coming from San Francisco all ready for putting up and the carpenters will follow close after the plasterers, and then will come the painters and then the furniture Everything is moving along, but it is a large building, and whether it will be done by Christmas or not is difficult to say

TO IMPROVE THE UMPQUA.—Captain W Young, of the United States engineers who lately sent a man down to superintend the expenditure of $900 appropriated for removing rocks from the mouth of the Umpqua river and deepening the channel there has been instructed by the chief engineer to have made a survey of the river with a view of submitting a project for improving it from Scottsburg to the mouth Mr C A Lyle will attend to making this survey as soon as he has completed the work he has now in hand at Siuslaw and if his report is favorable there will probably be a hundred or two thousand of dollars spent there within the next few years

CLAIMS HE WAS ROBBED.—A fellow who gave his name as Dan Rankin and who was in a state of intoxication came to the police station yesterday and said he had been robbed of something over $100 in coin and a check for a considerable amount. He had been noticed in the company of two rather suspicious characters around a saloon at Third and D streets and Officer ... an Ryan arrested one of them, a fellow named ... Cooley It was found that $120 had been deposited in his saloon Cooley claims it was deposited by Rankin but the police think it was deposited by Cooley, who had taken it from Rankin The check was found in Rankin's pocket

GRAND OFFICERS ELECTED.—The Grand Lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen ... yesterday elected the following grand officers for the ensuing year Thomas A ... grand master ... J J Daly foreman Oliver Hall overseer N Clark recorder R ... receiver The following representatives to the Supreme lodge were elected E. S Smith W D Hare and T C Van Epps The salary of the grand recorder was raised from $1200 to $1800 The next meeting of the grand lodge will be held at Astoria To-day the grand officers will be installed and the grand lodge will adjourn

THE WORK GOES BRAVELY ON.—The heavy traction pulleys lately received for the cable road, have been put in place on the hill. The walk way under the long trestle is completed and plank braces are being put in to stiffen the structure Track and slot rails are being laid on the trestle and it is expected work on the trestle will be done in another week. The excavation for the power house will be completed in two weeks The timbers for the building have been framed and when the foundation is ready it will go up in short order

TENNIS TOURNAMENT.—To-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock a tennis tournament will be held at the court of the Multnomah Lawn Tennis Club on Eighteenth and H streets The tournament is the second of the series to be played by the Vancouver Barracks club and the Multnomah club The first was played some weeks ago at Vancouver and it will be remembered resulted in favor of the home club. The officers have been hard at practice for some time, and hope to win back some of their lost laurels to-morrow

WORK ON THE ELEVATORS.—Mr C E Michener, manager of the Pacific Coast Elevator Company, returned yesterday from a four weeks visit to the East. He was very glad to get back to Portland, and will now remain here for good He says that twenty-three of the elevators along the lines of the O. R. & N. Co. are completed, and the remainder are progressing favorably The terminal elevator here will be pushed to completion with all possible speed and will be completed in time to handle this season's crop.

CONCERT ON MOUNT TABOR.—The Marine band of twenty two pieces, has been engaged by the Willamette Bridge Railway Company to give a concert on the top of Mount Tabor Saturday evening. Cars will leave Morrison st bridge every thirty minutes during the evening Refreshments will be provided on the grounds and an hour or two can be very pleasantly spent enjoying the cool breezes and the splendid music The programme will be published in THE OREGONIAN to-morrow

THE T J POTTER.—Engineer Thomas Smith who is to have charge of the propelling power of the steamer T J Potter this season was busily engaged all day yesterday overhauling her machinery and washing the salt out of her boiler A corps of painters were also kept busy all day Captain Archie Pease will have command of the Potter, Patrick Moran steward Daniel O'Neil, purser, and Prince Jackson, first assistant engineer.

A BLIND PIANIST DEAD.—A note to THE OREGONIAN dated Council Bluffs July 7 says The celebrated blind pianist, and eldest daughter of Joseph and Madame Ida Heine, of the Heine Concert Company, died suddenly while on a visit to Union Illinois June 28 She leaves a loving husband, fond parents and sisters to mourn her loss She was the wife of Herr Paul Stoeving of the Boston Quintette Club

A SUGGESTION.—Don't be persuaded by the sayings of so-called first class gallery managers into paying $5 and $6 per dozen cabinet photographs for inferior work, when you can get cabinet photographs for $2 per dozen from Prof Eastman Remember the day (Friday) N street between Fourth and Fifth streets, East Portland. Prof Eastman in attendance.

FORWARDED BLANKS, ETC.—Postmaster Roby has forwarded to the postmaster at Ellensburgh everything necessary in the way of blanks, stationery, etc., to put his office in running order The fire at Ellensburgh came on the postoffice so suddenly that nothing but the cash books and other valuables could be saved.

IRON FOR THE LIGHTHOUSE.—Twelve car loads of iron for the lighthouse being constructed at Destruction island are at Kalama. Bids have been advertised for and will be opened at Major Handbury's office in a few days for the transportation of this iron and a lot of brick and other material to the island.

EMMA, THE SAFE MAN.—Says he will give $100 to any one that can show a burnt paper or book that came out of his safes either in the Seattle or Ellensburgh fires, and furthermore he is willing and anxious to have a public fire test with any or all makers, to prove his claim of having the "best safe."

TOTAL AMOUNT TO DATE.—Yesterday B W Pierce and George E Youle of Oakland Or, each sent to THE OREGONIAN office $1 for the Ellensburgh sufferers. This makes the total sum collected at this office up to date $207 50, for those who sustained heavy loss by the fire at Ellensburgh.

PORTLAND. FRIDAY. JULY 12.

IS IT A DREAM?

General B F Butler on the 2d inst. delivered at Colby college, Me , his alma mater, a remarkable address. General Butler as a stump orator is not seen at his best; he is then apt to let his grim humor and blasting wit run riot so that he makes a bad impression upon serious candid minds that he is a brilliant rather than a profound man, with a constitutional tendency to flippant speech , not seldom dropping down to brutal, rank vulgarity of expression , the style of a vigorous, rugged, popular criminal lawyer, but this is the smallest part of Butler, his worst side. His best side is when he delivers a formal address on some occasion that does not call for an extemporaneous cut and thrust duel with a political antagonist On non political or rather non partisan occasions Butler's speeches are always worth reading He has been a tireless reader worker and thinker, he has never wasted his time in dissipation, he has a prodigious memory for facts and is a profound and accurate scholar in all matters relating to the political history of the United States and of Europe and his legal studies have made him familiar with the jurisprudence of the English speaking civilization of the world

In his address before his college General Butler discussed the question of the annexation of Canada from a new standpoint, he prefigured the time when the English speaking nations of the earth would form a vast harmonious league against the world He sets forth the fact that Canada in her area includes 40 per cent of all the possessions of Great Britain, or, excluding Alaska, 500 000 square miles in excess of the area of the United States, that Canada and her surrounding waters contain one half of all the fresh water of the globe that the temperature of Hudson s bay, 000 miles long and 600 wide, is three or four degrees higher than the water on the southwestern shores of Lake Superior where lie the flourishing and fruitful states of Michigan Minnesota and Wisconsin The Sault canal, which makes commercial navigation possible between Lake Superior and the great lakes below, in 1888 "carried north and brought south articles and productions which are most needful for the support of the human race, including 25 000 000 bushels of wheat, 6,411,423 tons of freight, while the Suez canal, over which the greatest nations of Europe and Africa have quarreled, and which is fed by the commerce of two hemispheres, carried 6,640,830 tons, but took twelve months to do it in, while the little canal of the Falls of St. Mary had but seven in which to do nearly an equal amount '

Canada has one-quarter more land fitted for wheat cultivation than the United States The average production of wheat per acre in the United States in the year 1887 was a little over twelve bushels while in the same year in Manitoba, where we hardly realize there is aught to support life the yield was 12 500 000 bushels at an average of twenty seven bushels to the acre

Canada has timber enough to supply herself and the United States for more than 100 years and she has more copper than any other country General Butler points out that 'the increase of our own country in power and strength by the enterprise of its inhabitants from the fecundity in production of children, with all the adjuncts and accompaniments for a reduction of unoccupied and unexplored territory, proceeds from the Middle and Northwestern states, not only to the Northwestern parts of our own country but to Canada The political effect of this great increase of national power has suddenly developed itself by the admission of four new states into the Union in addition to Iowa Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota, to which the nation will soon look as a great factor in the direction of its political affairs all of which are on the very Northwesternmost part of our territory And as we have a fixed line at the North the great tide of emigration which is still flowing to the Northwest flows over into Canada where the settlers find a congenial climate and a congenial people '

General Butler argues that the rule is a universal one that a climate which abounds in genial skies, warmth that enervates with a luxuriant animal and vegetable creation whether on the eastern shores of the Pacific or the western shores of the Atlantic do not produce men and women who make the energetic life blood of the nation Human experience has been that the climate that allows man to get enough for his personal comfort without any considerable exertion, also makes that man pause at that point, and he will make scarce further exertion That rule is not confined to any race or color or condition of men

Our Southern territories that never knew slavery do not increase because of the imperative law that no men are fit for anything but those who must work in order to eat and be warm '

In Canada and our own Northwest men do not deteriorate because the climate is cold enough to compel everybody to work in order to live and the land is fertile to give every man abundant returns for his labor Having thus made it clear that Canada in climate soil agricultural mineral and timber wealth in her furs and fisheries and last of all in the hardy and energetic quality of her people is naturally fit for fusion with the great North and Northwest of the United States, General Butler says that if Canada desires union with the United States and signifies her wishes in a recognizable form England has no power to prevent it and if Canada does not wish union with the United States England has no power to enact it England could throw off Canada as a dependency but could not throw her upon the United States General Butler then concludes his remarkable address with the following solution of the annexation problem a forecasting of the day when the United States, Canada and Great Britain shall all belong to the same great political union We quote

> Would not the more feasible the more sensible nay the more statesmanlike and effective manner of bringing together the United States and Canada, and ultimately both in a common bond of political union with Great Britain herself especially in a few years after Great Britain may be a republic the form of her government seeming to be not substantially in the way now to enter into negotiations for that purpose carefully and in the most friendly spirit, the negotiators in charge having only one idea in common that is, how can the three peoples best get together? Why should not the diplomacy instead of this paltry and petty matter be that negotiations should be approached with a view of uniting the two adjacent English speaking peoples living side by side in America in the same commercial and business union but each with [illegible] as may be determined leaving Great Britain whose institutions depend upon the same constitutional provisions and whose laws [illegible] protection to their several peoples later on when her interest or safety demands to come into like compact with the United States and Canada a league against the world if any part of the world should see fit to take a stand, which none would or could successfully do
>
> Two great navies to menace each other with their enormous equipment and consequent expenditures and losses by decay would at once be dispensed with All Europe and Asia joined together in battle array if such a thing were possible, against the English speaking people of the globe would pause in dismay before any hostile step should be taken against such a united power Such a national combination would, within its own borders, have everything that would be necessary to carry on a defensive or offensive warfare, and its borders would be the compass of the globe
> To that English speaking league every nation would be obliged to submit for arbitrament every cause of differences, if not because of fear of its armed intervention, yet because of its holding the money of the world. No war could be carried on which that power should disapprove and any nation might disarm who should be protected even by promise of financial aid from the pledge of the united English-speaking people of the earth With America and England uniting their means of production and transportation of that which sustains life and secures comfort no want or famine could ever come, and within a century a universal language could pervade the world, thus relieving it from the punishment inflicted on mankind by the Lord Almighty at the tower of Babel

It is easy to sneer at this political forecast of General Butler as a dream, but no less man than the great English historian Green speaks with the enthusiasm of a prophet, who has already caught a glimpse of the beatific vision of the glorious future when all the English speaking nations of the globe will peacefully gladly, harmoniously present under one flag the wall of English civilization and enlightened Christianity with its absolute religious tolerance as an impregnable defense against the world when it is hostile as a place of refuge for the friends of 'government of the people for the people and by the people ' when the hereditary folly and misrule of tyrants makes them fugitives on the face of the earth

THE OREGON TRANSCONTINENTAL

Villard's Plan a Fine Thing for the Northwest, But How About the People?

Railroad Gazette July 5

Now that the smoke of the Oregon Transcontinental battle is clearing away the field and the results can be better seen It is apparent that the point most insisted upon by the Villard party was that the rental of 6 per cent upon the Railway & Navigation stock to be paid by the Union Pacific should not be reduced of which they anticipated the danger should that company secure the control This dividend the Oregon Railway & Navigation Co has not earned In 1888 the Union Pacific advanced $3?0 000 to cover the rental deficiency It would however be a serious error to consider this deficit as the measure of the value of the Oregon Railway & Navigation lines to the Union Pacific, since the interchange traffic over the Oregon Short Line netted the Union Pacific probably over half a million dollars

In view of this and of the future prospects for traffic from Oregon and Washington it can hardly be said that this guarantee of 6 per cent will prove too heavy a burden Well informed railroad men are agreed that no section of our newer country has so bright a future as the region watered by the Columbia river and its tributaries Oregon and Washington will one day support a large population and even now give to the railroads a fair tonnage It is apparent that here as in other states the railroads in their haste to possess the land might build lines far beyond present needs entailing great losses until population should overtake the mileage

It is, therefore cause for congratulation that the Transcontinental compromise will allow only of necessary building under a joint occupancy by competing roads In these states the Northern Pacific has the better strategical position By its joint arrangements over the Oregon Railway & Navigation lines it reaches Portland and the territory tributary thereto By its own road over the Cascade mountains it reaches the Sound thus drawing traffic to its main line from both the Washington and Oregon slopes By its lease of the Oregon Railway & Navigation lines the Union Pacific has access to Portland and West Washington on the one hand, and on the other to the farming and mining countries of the Palouse and Colville Spokane and Cour d'Alene The St Paul Minneapolis & Manitoba will make no present effort to build its connection to the Pacific if trackage facilities are secured to it, nor can the Seattle Lake Shore & Eastern now building east from Seattle to Spokane Falls prove a disturbing factor If the greater part of this present and prospective traffic can be carried over the Oregon Railway & Navigation lines impartially the future of that property ought to be assured The people of Portland and of the states named were opposed to this policy Naturally they are selfishly anxious for as many lines of railroad as possible, and all strongly competitive They are shippers of freight and not to any great degree owners of bonds and stock But the policy of building roads only as they are needed is so clearly right, and the advantages to all the Pacific roads from the ability to reach all important competitive points at the minimum of expense so apparent that it would be a financial crime if a failure to agree should be allowed for some years to come to compel any unnecessary railroad building in the Pacific Northwest

STATE CONSTITUTIONS.

St Paul Pioneer Press

The constitution of a state is meant to be its fundamental law and it ought to be nothing more and nothing less It should establish the organic structure of the government, and lay down the broad fundamental rules or principles which are to control its administration and define and restrict the domain of legislation It should embody such safe guards as the experience of ages has proved to be necessary to protect the rights of the citizen from the invasion of the legislative or judicial power What is essentially fundamental and therefore structurally permanent falls within the proper province of a state constitution It should embrace only the ultimate generalizations of political experience—the principals that have stood the test of time or which have been evolved from the errors of past experiences There is plenty of room for needed reforms within these lines But there will be plenty of attempts to load down the constitutions with provisions that are purely legislative in their character and which should be remanded to the legislature And generally these attempts will be made on the very questions which are the least capable of being settled by any constitutional provision—questions of controversy on which parties are fiercely arrayed against each other It is always dangerous to put themes which are the subjects of wide popular controversy into the fundamental law The best model of a state constitution is the constitution of the United States Its grandeur lies in its simplicity It has stood almost unaltered for a hundred years because its authors understood the difference between the essential, the fundamental and the permanent and what is accidental, temporary and liable to change with the changing phases of public opinion

NEWS FROM THE MINES

Notes of Interest to Mining Men Here and Elsewhere

Baker City Democrat

The Bonanza King, near Haines is rapidly coming to the front as one of the bonanzas of this district One of the proprietors displayed specimens of iron sulphurets which assay $40 to the ton This property is valuable and will some day be recognized as one of the greatest producers of the camp

James Hostetter will superintend the erection of the Huntington mill, at the Big Aleck mine, now under course of construction

The Bonanza King is working ten men, three eight-hour shifts, at present.

Numerous strikes are reported in the vicinity of Susanville and Robinsonville Smith Brothers & Lane have opened a store at Susanville, which will supply Big Creek, Ruby Creek, Elk Creek and the Greenhorn districts

The mining property at Cracker Creek, owned by Mrs. Miller, of this city, is being rapidly developed According to indications it will not be long before this property is yielding golden returns

The Chicken Creek placer mines are being worked with might and main These diggings have been worked for several years, always paying liberal returns

A party of young men have opened placer claims on the divide between Burnt river and Connor creek They report ' blue gravel and bedrock pitching "

Murphy Brothers have a valuable lode at Cable Cove The rock assays well and in the near future a mill will be erected which will stamp out $40 per ton

L H Johnstone of Robinsonville, brought in a rich specimen of ore from his claim in that district which he bonded while here, to Baker City parties for $5000

Southern Idaho Mines.

Owyhee Avalanche Miners working on the Illinois Central mine have uncovered a lode about eighteen inches wide of ore that will mill at least $100 per ton

Ore from the White Goat and Blackhawk mines in the Seafoam mining district shows the following returns respectively 125 ounces silver and 15 per cent lead per ton and 18 ounces silver and second class 150 ounces silver and $8 gold per ton

Elmore Bulletin Last Chance mill belonging to the Atlanta Hill Gold Mining Company was entirely destroyed by fire one day last week The mill had been lying idle for three years and there was no possibility of accidental fire The loss is estimated at $15 000

Challis Messenger A new strike has been made about one fourth of a mile south east of the smelter Clayton and on the south side of the Salmon river Two locations have been made and the ledges traced on the surface for 1000 feet The ledge is about two feet in width of fine looking ore, which is apparently high grade galena carrying silver From present indications this is one of the best discoveries ever made in Custer county and is practically finding a lead mine on a smelter dump

Elmore Bulletin Within a distance of one and one half miles from Rocky Bar is located a gold bearing quartz vein the value of which if properly worked will soon become greater than that of the noted Home stake in the Black Hills The property referred to is owned by Alexander Cochrane and others At the point where the ore crops the vein has been proven to have a width of more than 100 feet, and samples taken from across the ledge have assayed from $10 to $300 per ton This even admitting the lowest returns ever received from the rock to represent its average value would render this vast body of gold bearing quartz a mint of wealth in any country where enterprise and capital rule One hundred stamps could be kept dropping upon $10 rock from this mountain of ore for five years without disturbing more than what is now in sight

HIGH-PRESSURE AGE.

From the New York Record

Very aptly has this century been called the high pressure age In no period of the world s history did men live so fast as they do now By fast life is not meant exclusively dissipation but rapidity of execution of whatever is taken in hand—that hurry and bustle for which Americans have been so truly noted that to day the business or professional man scarcely allows himself proper time for eating and sleeping

This coupled with late hours sedentary habits unbridled indulgence in the passions of youth and the excesses of maturer years, has given rise to a catalogue of diseases mental nervous and sexual which if not promptly and radically counteracted will not only destroy the vigor and manhood of the present generation but further than this superinduce beyond a doubt a complete degeneracy of those who come after us Fortunately, however medical science has of late years made most rapid progress—no more striking instance of which can be cited than the system of electro magnetic treatment as practiced by Drs Darrin

These physicians make a specialty of treating these diseases by this common sense and logical system of electro magnetic applications which avoids stomach drugging and bears directly on the parts affected and have given the subject their closest thought and study They have been successful when all others have failed in giving vigor to the shattered constitution and relief to those who have become unfitted to perform the duties and the obligations of life

Those needing the advice of honorable and reliable medical men would do well to apply at their consultation rooms where every information will be afforded, and consultation may be had free of charge

The doctors have had a wonderful record of success in the past few years, testimonials by the thousand affording convincing proof of the efficacy of their system of treatment

NOTES FROM LA GRANDE.

The Grand Ronde Valley Exempt From Dry Weather.

With Few Exceptions All Kinds of Grain Will Fully Equal the Average Yield—Important Notes.

LA GRANDE, July 9.

The weather and crop reports issued under authority of the signal office of Portland being general in character and applying to the condition and outlook of crops throughout the state generally, are apt to be misleading as to the prospects in Grand Ronde valley, which is usually subject to conditions entirely different from other portions of Eastern Oregon and the Willamette valley. For instance, the heavy rain of ten days ago, which came too late in many localities in Eastern Oregon, where the grain was farther advanced, came just in time to do the most good to the larger portion of the grain in Grand Ronde. With very few exceptions all kinds of grain in this valley will fully equal the average yield. The hay crop has not fared so well, but there will still be large quantities for export. A number of buyers from adjacent localities have been in La Grande during the week to make contracts for supplies. The price is hardly settled yet and probably will not be until the crop has been cured and a reasonable estimate placed upon what is in sight. At present the prevailing price is $10 per ton, baled, for the old crop and $12 for the new. With the hay market in this valley the question of demand is always a factor, as Grand Ronde is the only principal hay producing section in this part of the state, and the price is to a large extent regulated by the quantity produced, and in this respect a slight shortage in the yield does not materially affect the farmer who has hay to sell. Upon the whole, it is probable that the hay crop will yield as much in money this year as last. With the ready market for hay and the prospects for a fair price for grain, the farmers of Grand Ronde are in a condition to feel satisfied with favorable prospects for a prosperous season this fall. As a rule, all the farmers in Grand Ronde are becoming well fixed, and they probably have less reason to complain of dull times than those of any other locality in the Pacific Northwest.

Although this is usually considered a dull season of the year, business has not apparently diminished, and the amount of building improvements and the number of enterprises steadily increases. All the merchants are preparing to carry large full stocks, and anticipate a lively trade. All the grain and hay shipments, as well as the consignments of wool from Union and Wallowa counties, are made from La Grande, and the vast sums of money disbursed in exchange for these commodities furnishes a comparatively plentiful supply of the circulating medium—this statement is qualified for the reason that the time was never known when money was absolutely "plenty."

The Board of Trade met in special session Monday evening to devise means for properly entertaining the Nebraska Press Association, which is expected to stop at La Grande a few hours. At the same meeting an Eastern capitalist was present, who contemplates the erection of a 100-barrel flouring mill at La Grande in the near future.

J. B. Sherman, manager of the Grand Ronde Lumbering Company, arrived from the East this week, having completed the purchase of machinery for the company's mammoth sawmills recently built. Mr. Sherman brought with him a large number of former associates in the lumber business at Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin. These gentlemen are also identified with the affairs of the new company that has expended a small fortune in preparing to reduce the forests of the Blue mountains to merchantable lumber and building material. When in full operation the Grand Ronde Lumber Company will manufacture 200,000 feet of lumber daily.

The big elevator will soon be ready for the machinery. Thirty-five carloads of lumber have been used in its construction, and its cost, when completed and in running order will approximate $30,000. This is designed as a central elevator for the cleaning and handling of grain especially brewing barley for shipment East. The La Grande elevator is the only one with complete cleaning apparatus outside of the company's terminal elevator at Albina. It also has a third greater capacity than any other one owned by the company outside of the one at Albina.

The record of deeds in this county shows a steady increase in the number of real estate transfers in La Grande. Twelve lots within six blocks of the postoffice sold this week for $1200—an advance of $700 over the price paid for the same property three months ago.

A division of the Brotherhood of Railroad Brakemen was organized in La Grande last week, with twenty-five charter members. A union meeting of all the railway brotherhoods was held Tuesday evening, the same being addressed by Grand Master Wilkinson, of Galesburg, Ills., Grand Master Charles Moore, of the B. of R. C., and Engineer James Watson, who was a member of the grievance committee recently in session at Omaha. All the railway brotherhoods have lodges at La Grande, and most of them have a good membership.

Plans have been adopted and material is being delivered for a new Catholic church edifice.

An effort is being made to induce a combination of local capital for the purpose of putting up a big hotel, which is one of the pressing needs. La Grande citizens have not yet been taxed very heavily to contribute toward local enterprises, as the town has escaped the range of heavy subsidies and bonuses, and it would seem that an investment in the hotel enterprise would prove a good thing to the investors, as it certainly would to the town. The people could probably raise a fund of between $20,000 and $30,000 for the building of a hotel, or would probably become equally interested with any outside party, if there is such a person who cares to make that kind of an investment.

COAL MINES OF WASHINGTON.

The Inspector of First District Makes a Report.

The following is a digest of the report of Mr. H. O. Paige, inspector of coal mines, which has been filed with the governor of Washington. It embraces the operations of coal mines of that district for the quarter ending June 30:

Northwest Coal Company, Bucoda.—This mine has been idle during the quarter, but the company will start up the works in a few days.

The South Prairie mine has been closed most of the quarter; the output of coal was [illegible] tons.

Tacoma Coal Company, Wilkeson—Work in this mine has been suspended, as the present facilities were inadequate for keeping water out while sinking the slope. Thirty-three hundred and four tons of coal were taken out.

The Wilkeson Coal & Coke Company's mine has been closed most of the quarter. They intend to start it in August. Output, 1538 tons.

The Carbonado coal mines have been operated during the entire quarter. The output was 56,987 tons. It was in mine No. 4 of this company that David W. Evans, a native of Wales, 25 years of age, lost his life by an explosion on June 10. Mr. Evans was an old miner and favorably known by the mine foreman. Some few days before his death he held the position of fire boss, whose duty it is to examine the mine in the morning with his safety lamp, before the miners are allowed to enter for work. On June 8 the fan was stopped to examine and make needed repairs. It was started up Sunday night following. Evidence proves that Evans went into the mine with his open lamp upon his cap, contrary to expressed orders, meeting death by his own carelessness. The damage by the explosion is estimated at $30,000.

The inspector visited the mine the day after the explosion, and found there was about eight feet caved in above the logging, filling up the gangway a distance of over 500 feet, making a complete air current, freeing the mine from gas. The gangway is being repaired as rapidly as possible. Total output of mines 67,829 tons.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—Produce receipts during the past twenty-four hours included: Wheat 29,500 centals, flour 6700 qr sks, potatoes 5400 sks, barley 5000 ctls.

Freights and charters—During the week there have been no spot grain charters written and the market for spot vessels is flat. But three vessels suitable for grain carrying are in port disengaged. A fairly active movement is noted in chartering to arrive and tonnage is firmly held with an upward tendency. Rates on iron tonnage for U. K., Havre or Antwerp range from 35s to 37s 6d, with one charter made as high as 38s 9d. At the close freights are hardening. Vessels arriving in under prior charters were the British iron ships Sutherlandshire, 1649 tons, Strathblane, 1368 tons, and the Otmara, 1354 tons, all at 36s to U. K., Havre or Antwerp. Miscellaneous freights were quiet and steady.

Wheat—Under unfavorable crop reports from Russia and the spring wheat belt of the United States, prices have steadily advanced in England, California cargoes showing a gain of 9 pence to 1 shilling per quarter during the week. Our local market acting in sympathy has advanced from $1 26¼ to 1 32½ per cental for standard No. 1 shipping. The export demand, while not very active, is moderately brisk, and holders who are willing to part with their product at $1 32½ have no particular difficulty in finding buyers. Offerings, however, are not liberal, as each advance on the part of buyers is met by enhanced pretension on the part of sellers. At the close the market is easier and the turn cheaper. No. 1 shipping, $1 30@1 31¼.

Futures—Trading in buyer year, option ruled active and values higher 3@3½c. Reactions were numerous, stimulating speculation by presenting many opportunities for realizing profits. At the close prices eased off. Forenoon sales were: buyer year 1800 tons at $1 37¼, 200 at $1 38, 200 at $1 37⅝; buyer season $1 45¼, seller year, new, $1 29⅞.

Afternoon session—Buyer year opened $1 37⅛, closed at $1 37, buyer season closed at $1 44⅞, seller (new) year $1 29⅞.

Barley—The market shows a decided improvement compared with last week's prices, and holders of choice feed who refused to sell one week ago, can market their product at 2½@5c per cental higher. The demand for old feed is active while old brewing is in brisk demand at advanced quotations. Quote old feed, No. 1, 70c; lower grades, 62½@65c; brewing, old, 75@90c; new, 85@87½c. Options, active and higher. Buyer year, 86⅝c; buyer season, 83⅝c; seller year, 77¼c. Buyer season closed 86c.

Oats—The demand is improving, and the market strong, with an advancing tendency. Holders are more independent, stocks being well concentrated and offerings kept well in hand. Choice feed sold as high as $1 15 per cental. Quote: Feed, choice, $1 12½@1 15; No. 1 feed, 1 07½@1 10; common descriptions, $1@1 05; milling in fair request at $1 15@1 17½.

Millstuffs—Firmer and higher, with a good demand. Bran quotable at $13 50@15 per ton. Middlings, $18 50 to $17.

Potatoes—Receipts and demand about balance, and the market is steady at 50c@$1 37½ for Burbanks; 60@90c for Peerless, and 60@75c for Garnet Chile.

Wool—The wool market shows no important change either way. Some operators who have bought in the interior at fancy prices find difficulty at the moment in turning over their purchases at a profit. Eastern advices however continue favorable to holders and concessions are unobtainable. Local quotations remain nominal and unchanged. Quote valley, Oregon, 20@24½c; Eastern, 14@21c; California, 13@24c.

Hops—No movement of any importance; quotations wholly nominal at 10@15c.

Bags—Very quiet and easy at 7⅝@7¾c.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Wheat receipts at the seven principal Eastern points, past 24 hours were 285,000 bushels, and the shipments from these points during the same time were 163,000 bushels.

Wheat—Opened easier at 83¾c July, 79⅝c August and September, 81c December. Noon—81½c July, 78⅝c August and September, 79⅝c December. Closed—80c July, 77½c August and September, 79⅝c December.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET

Our little girl when but three weeks old broke out with eczema. We tried the prescription from several good doctors, but without any special benefit. We tried S. S. PENNSYLVANIA'S ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Chairman Dodd yesterday received the following Pennsylvania's acknowledgment of what Portland did for the Johnstown sufferers

HARRISBURG July 8 1889

Dear Sir —I am directed by Governor Beaver to acknowledge the receipt of your sympathetic letter of the 27th ult. inclosing a check for $755 40 in aid of our sufferers by flood and to express to you his thanks for your interest in the matter and only wish it were in your power to thank each of the generous donors personally for him. He regrets exceedingly that it is not in his power to acknowledge the generous contribution of your people over his own signature but overwhelming official duties connected with the late flood prevent. He therefore calls upon me to perform that pleasant duty which I do sincerely not only for the contributions of money but also for the box sent to Pittsburg. Very truly yours

JOHN LOCKHART,
Executive Clerk

AT THE THEATERS.

"Our Strategists" Scores a Success—Cordray's Musee and Theater Well Filled—"The Twelve Temptations" Next Week

One of the neatest, cleverest and most admirably constructed comedies that was ever put upon the stage is Haverly's "Strategists." When first produced, several years ago, it had an uninterrupted run of many weeks, and to this day it never fails to keep an audience intensely amused when even fairly presented. The situations are all happily and naturally conceived and the "strategy" is so cleverly carried out that at times even the audience is deceived as to the identity of the principal conspirator.

The presentation of this side-splitting comedy last evening at the New Park by Lauri & Bell's Comedy Company, with Marietta Nash as Nellie Howard, was one of the most enjoyable performances seen here in many a day. Harry B Bell, the versatile comedian, played the role of Jack Rutledge, the chief strategist, in a most admirable manner and the artistic smoothness of his work and the ease with which he disguised himself in his almost lightning changes showed him to be a most clever actor. His several scenes in the personation of his own and his sweetheart's father were finely done, especially those in the third act with Mrs. Howard and the minister. The audience was in high laughter all through the act, and at the climax, when the scamp has to gulp down the boneset tea, coarse laughter shook the house.

Miss Marietta Nash made a very pleasing Nellie Howard and carried out her scenes with becoming piquancy. There was not the opportunity for the display of her specialties in singing and dancing, which will occur later in the engagement.

George Lauri made a good Major Howard, his tipsy scene in the third act being especially well done.

Will H Bray, the clever author of the song "Papa's Baby Boy," in the role of the Sergeant did capitally and sang his latest song, "A Baby's Kiss," with great expression. For an encore he sang "Don't Forget Old Dad" in good style. He was heartily applauded.

Miss Helen Reiner made a good Mrs Howard, and the remainder of the cast was all that could be wished.

"Our Strategists" again to-night.

THE TWELVE TEMPTATIONS

A production which is entirely new to Portland will be presented all next week at the New Park theater, commencing Monday evening July 15, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

The memories which the piece awakens and revives certainly resurrect the name of James Fisk Jr, who produced it at the Grand Opera House New York city in 1870, when he was controlling the destinies of that house and at the head of the great Erie railway. He expended a fortune in its presentation, and old theater-goers who saw it say for elaborateness it far surpassed any spectacle seen in years. Mr Yale has utilized a Norse fairy tale as his theme, which is carried through four acts and is noted by being far above the average compositions usually used as a vehicle for the introduction of spectacular effects. The company engaged to present the play numbers sixty-eight persons and several well known names lead the cast.

The scenery comprises sixteen sets and a moving panorama some 400 feet long, the work of Messrs Charles S. Goetz, Harley Merry and H. L. Reid, artists whose brushes have been identified with notable scenic productions, and they have each tried to excel the other in their respective work. The European ballet troupe of twenty-four dancers, and led by the renowned Bonfanti and assisted by Mlle. Eloise and Victor Chiado (under whose direction the ballets are given), are said to compose several "Novelties." "The Policemen and the Flirts," a pretty conceit danced by eighteen coryphees. "The Ballet of the Nations," each girl representing a nation, and "The Ballet of the Cockatoos," in which some twenty live birds are introduced, is claimed to be the most refreshing innovation witnessed in years. The specialties have been carefully selected and compose the Brothers Savinilla, in the presidential quadrille, the trials of the Topsy Turvey troupe in a coupe ride and its tribulations, huge dragons, birds, gulls, bears and scores of huge reptiles are introduced in startling profusion.

The music is original and the work of W. F. Spaurl. All in all Mr. Gilmore's "Twelve Temptations" is conceded to be a spectacular triumph, on which he has expended $35,000.

The sale of seats will open this morning at Hoyt Bros.' music store, when places can be secured without extra charge for any performance during the engagement, which is limited to one week.

CORDRAY'S MUSEE AND THEATER

All the available space was taken again last night at this popular place of amusement. Half the house was sold long before the doors were open. The play, "The Octoroon," is put on in excellent style. The company deserves much credit for the interest taken. Every part is well sustained and the company as a whole is a capable one. "The Octoroon" will continue the remainder of the week.

Saturday will be children's day and the musee will be replete with novelties. Mr and Mrs. Punch and Jo Jo with his happy family, will be on hand to amuse the little folks. In the theater there will be a grand Octoroon matinee. Seats can be reserved at the box office without extra charge.

A TRAGIC DEATH

John Zimmerli Killed by a Fall Yesterday Afternoon at the New Hotel

At 5:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon John Zimmerli, a tinner in the employ of J. C. Bayer and working on the new hotel, fell down a well hole from the top floor, a distance of about twenty-two feet, to the fourth floor, striking a joist in the descent.

Willing hands picked the unfortunate man up and Dr Binswanger was summoned, who, after making a superficial examination, removed him to St. Vincent's hospital. The hospital was reached about 6 o'clock, and shortly thereafter Zimmerli breathed his last, having died from a broken back and severe internal injuries.

As far as can be learned no one saw Zimmerli fall, but it is supposed that he accidentally walked into the well hole while rolling out tar paper on the top floor. The other workmen told a reporter that several of them have at times come very near slipping into this same hole.

The deceased was about 23 years of age and unmarried. He has a sister living in this city, and another about seven miles out on the Powell's valley road.

The coroner took charge of the remains, but has not yet determined whether to hold an inquest or not.

IMPORTING MORE SONG BIRDS

An Opportunity Offered to Obtain a Large Number of Winged Warblers

The importation of German singing birds here has attracted a great deal of attention all over the Union and has aroused much interest in this matter. Fruit growers near Cincinnati have contracted with a person there to bring over a large number of insect-eating birds to protect their orchards.

This person writes to Mr Frank Dekum, president of the society for the importation of song birds, that he leaves for Germany on July 29, and that if any persons or towns here wish to procure birds and will club together and order a thousand dollars worth he will secure them and deliver them here next spring in April or May. There were a number of persons who desired birds last spring who could not get them. The opportunity is now afforded to all such to order just what they want and at a stated price. For instance nightingales will be $9 50 per pair, skylarks $4, black starlings $5, thrushes $8, bullfinches $4 and other finches $3 per pair, robin redbreasts $3 50 and singing quails $5 per pair, and so on.

Mr C F Pfluger, secretary of the society for importing birds, will attend to forwarding orders sent in. The birds turned loose last spring are all doing well, and any person or community can hardly do a greater service to the state than by importing birds which will destroy the insects which destroy fruit.

A Bridge in Bad Repair—A Horse Killed—Suit in Prospect

Yesterday a party of Eastern tourists hired a carriage at the U. C. & B. T. Co. stables to drive around the city, and see the beauties thereof. While coming across the Front street bridge over Marquam's gulch one of the horses attached to their carriage broke through with his fore feet and broke his back. Mr Charles Hughes, manager of the U. C. & B. T. Co., says he will commence suit against the city this morning to recover the value of the horse, and while he is about it, will endeavor to secure some concerted action on the part of stable keepers, teamsters, etc. to compel street railway companies to keep the streets in repair along their tracks as required by law. The gentlemen who have charge of the streets will do well to barricade Front street bridge till repairs at least can be made, as the next thing a carriage load of tourists will drop through and give the town a bad reputation. It is reported that a horse broke through the same bridge and broke a leg Wednesday.

WATCH CLUB BUSINESS

Is It Profitable or Not to Pay Old Fogy Prices

For watches and diamonds when you can secure a bargain in any article sold on the club plan. The people of to-day are not all dead. Occasionally you will see an old fogy merchant that only needs to be pricked up to the enterprise surrounding him, then like an ass he will bray and kick. Waken up, old fogies, we invite competition. The enterprise of to-day is not like in olden times when you sold watches and diamonds at unreasonable prices. You must keep up with the times or you must not have the least ... If you wear the laurels you must walk ... follow the footsteps of the leading jewelers of Portland. Our great purported leaders have one bump on their heads that is the bump of originality. We sell more watches and diamonds in the club system than all the jewelers in the city put together can. We not afford to sell cheap. ... to our purported leaders we would advise that they would organize collar button clubs. They may be compelled to do something of this kind to shake the moss off their back. We are no charitable institution and like our purported leaders advertise to give watches away, but we are selling watches and diamonds at a close margin, and we are selling a quantity of them. We are open for competition. You will bray louder as you grow older. L. C. Henrichsen, wholesale and retail jeweler, 14 First street.

SHE RETURNED THE CHECK

But Kept $24 65 Because She Was Much in Need of Funds at the Time

A few days since a lady lost her pocket book while out shopping, and in it was a check for $5.00 and something over $20 in change. She advertised it. The next day she received the check by mail with the following note

I found the purse in Messrs —— & Co.'s store. I was very much in need of money at the time and my honest principles grew subservient to the temptation to steal. I knew the gold piece was in it because I saw you open the purse and lay it down. I return you the check because I would not run the risk of cashing it, as if I ... I might, the entire public would be surprised and me self disgraced forever. I am not poor, but my allowance ran out too quick. I know your address, and some day soon I shall return you the $ ... to which you had in money.

The lady was much pleased to recover the check and will be still more pleased when she receives the $24 65 and the purse.

A DROP IN MEATS

Ten Pounds of Good Roast Selling for $1. Other Meats in Proportion

L. Zimmerman, the people's butcher at ... First, is trying his annual experiment of catering to the middle classes during the summer months by inaugurating a system of low prices in all kinds of meats, which he says is meeting with a degree of success that he had scarcely dared to hope for. He is now selling over his counters, fresh from his coolers, 25 pounds of soup meats for $1, 20 pounds of corned beef for 100 cents, 15 pounds of good chuck rib for the same amount, 10 pounds of good roast beef for $1, prime roast beef for 12 cents a pound, and hind quarters of mutton for 7 cents a pound. He guarantees nothing but the freshest and best meats in all cases.

REFRIGERATOR WAGON

A very handsome refrigerator wagon has just been received from the East by Thomas J. Uhlman of the Rainier market, at West Park and D streets. It is a covered vehicle, with a regular refrigerator built inside, in which meat can be carried all day without the least danger in the hottest weather. At the rear is a block for cutting meat and places for hanging saw, cleaver, knife, steel, etc., all of which are protected from dust by a canvas covered frame which rises up and forms an awning over the man handling the meat. The vehicle is to be used in carrying meat on the Montavilla and over to Vancouver, and is just the thing for ... bush.

LIGHT DAY IN THE COURTS.

Trial of the Case of T. Lee vs. C. S Gault Concluded Yesterday.

The trial of the case of T Lee vs C S Gault was concluded in the U. S. circuit court yesterday and the case argued and submitted.

The suit is brought to recover possession of forty acres of land situated in Washington county, and the circumstances of the case are as follows

In 1879 William C Hicklin of Washington county was arrested on a charge of incest. He employed T B Handley to defend him, and was admitted to bail. Some time after he left the state but before going gave Mr Handley a mortgage on the property in question for $1000 as Mr Handley says to secure his fees, expenses, etc. Before Hicklin left the mortgage had been hypothecated to Thomas Connell for $400. Hicklin told some of his friends that he was going away and would go by his two first two names, William Carroll.

After he had gone Handley foreclosed the mortgage and the property was bought by Thomas Connell for $1,40, just what was due on it with costs, and Connell conveyed it to Handley. Afterward Handley sold it and it finally came into the hands of Gault, the defendant in this case.

Hicklin died not long ago in Corning, Ark, which fact is established beyond doubt. His heirs claim that the mortgage on the land was never properly foreclosed and sold their interests in the land to Lee, who has brought suit to secure possession of it.

The defects in the foreclosure alleged are as follows. That the affidavit in regard to the order for publication of summons does not show what diligence had been used to find Hicklin, but it does state that he had been indicted for a felony and could not be found by the officers of the state. Also that the order of publication was made on September 19, 1879, and directed that a copy of the summons and complaint should be deposited in the postoffice and directed to Hicklin at San Francisco, said to be his last post office address, and that the sheriff's return says he deposited it on August 12, 1878, over a year before the order was made.

Also that the decree was given in twenty-eight days instead of six weeks after the deposit of the summons.

In order that this suit could be properly brought in the United States court it was necessary that the property should be worth $5000. The testimony in this respect is very conflicting, real estate men claiming that it is worth $50 to $75 per acre, while farmers place the value of it at $25 to $40. The court will have to first decide on the value of the property before the matter of the alleged illegalities in the foreclosure is considered.

TELEPHONE SALOON CROWD

In the police court yesterday the cases of John Strom, Alfred Nelson and Gustav Backstrum, proprietors of the Telephone saloon, were disposed of. On the 3d inst. one Peck was robbed in that place of $15 50 by two rounders, Thomas Barry and James Heffron, and when an officer went there to make an arrest he met with considerable resistance, and the only interest Strom took in the affair was to say he wanted no fighting in his house. When this occurred Strom's co-defendants were absent, and on that score they were discharged, but Strom was fined $50.

A HUSBAND SUED FOR SUPPORT

Ophelia Devine yesterday petitioned Judge Stearns of the state circuit court to order D. J. Devine, her husband, to pay her $30 a month for the support of herself and child and to enjoin him from interfering with the household furniture in her possession. Mrs. Devine avers that since her marriage, nearly three years ago, Devine has not provided for her as he should have done, and during the past seven months has refused to provide even the necessities of life. Devine is employed by Closset & Devers.

The sale of the personal property of Ben Holladay was yesterday postponed until July 18, owing to Joseph H. Holladay's appeal from the order of sale.

EXAMINATION CONTINUED

The examination of Fred Biles, the young man charged with forgery, was continued in the police court yesterday until to-day.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

For quick raising, the Royal Baking Powder is superior to all other leavening agents. It is absolutely pure and wholesome and of the highest leavening power. It is always uniform in strength and quality and never fails to make light, sweet, most palatable and nutritive food. Bread, biscuits, muffins, cake, etc., raised with Royal Baking Powder may be eaten hot without distressing results to the most delicate digestive organs. It will keep in any climate without deterioration.

Prof. H. A. Mott, U. S. Government Chemist, after examining officially the principal baking powders of the country, reported:

"The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made both for that company and the United States Government.

"Because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public.
